WE NOMINATE

Charlotte Wackwitz Dougherty (Mrs. James L.), one of the handful of women in New Jersey history ever to serve as president of a major savings and loan firm, who this week retired from the presidency of the $17,000,000 Princeton Savings and Loan Association, a key element for the past half-century in the evolution of the Princeton Area. It was in 1926 that Mrs. Dougherty, a resident of Rocky Hill since 1919 and a graduate of Princeton High School, joined the Association which she was to serve with distinction, and in turn, as clerk-bookkeeper, manager, manager and secretary, and for almost two years as Board Chairman B. Franklin Bunn's successor as Association President.

In every sense Mrs. Dougherty's career is an American success story in the tradition of the "immigrant who made good." German-born, and an ocean traveler at age nine months, she points out that her father twice "made the crossing" from Europe. Originally a homesteader in Oklahoma's Cherokee Strip, he returned to Germany, met Mrs. Dougherty's mother and, following his daughter's birth, began to feel that Germany was not like the "Land of Opportunity" he had come to love as a naturalized citizen. With restless memories, boundless energy, and high hopes, he returned to his adopted America.

"We went back to the West to Pueblo, Colorado," she recalls. "Father bought land again and established himself in a wholesale truck-garden business, selling vegetables to hotels and other big institutions in the area. As a matter of fact," she adds, "he had worked out ways of growing things like lettuce in greenhouses without having them die of rot, and students from the near-by agricultural college used to visit him to find out how he did it." However, her father did not take to the high altitude and in 1919 decided to move his family eastward — to the green fields near Rocky Hill, New Jersey.

"Father decided it would be cheaper to bring everything with us than to sell at a loss," Mrs. Dougherty once reminisced. "So we moved everything: cows, calves, chickens, horses, farm tools. It was right after the war and the government was still 'conservator' — I think they called it — of the railroads. Father wanted me to help with the livestock, and they told him I could only go into the box-cars if I disguised myself as a boy — so I did!" Three weeks later, hair cropped short and dressed in men's farm work-clothes, she first saw New Jersey from a box-car door.

A decade ago Mrs. Dougherty, who together with her late husband initially worked for the Princeton Bank and Trust Company, helped found the 750-member New Jersey Savings and Loan League Women's Committee and served as its first chairman. The second woman ever elevated to the Board of Governors of the State Savings and Loan League, and currently Secretary of the Mercer County Savings and Loan Association, she is a charter member and past president of the Soroptimist Club of Princeton and over the years has played vital roles in a variety of community enterprises, including the Princeton March of Dimes that with her assistance has repeatedly paced the Mercer County campaign.

For her contributions to the continuing development of the Princeton Savings and Loan Association which grew from a single window in the Bank and Trust Company into its own quarters and eventually moved into its modern Chambers Street building; for her rare understanding of, and devotion, to, both Princeton and her beloved Rocky Hill; she is TOWN TOPICS' nominee as YOUTH TAKES THE KEY: Symbolically tied with a bright cheerful ribbon, the key to the Borough's former Engineering Building was handed over on Saturday to Princeton's teen-agers. (Left to right) Robert A. Engerbretson, new director of the youth center; Lynn Haagland, recording secretary on the student side; Tom Gaasan, elder statesman of Princeton's teen-agers; Mayor Henry S. Patterson with the key and Mrs. Raymond F. Male, adult president of the Center accepting it; Geoffrey Michael, student president behind the mayor and Mrs. Male; Saul Fox, who has worked with the project from the beginning and (rear) Borough Councilman Robert Hendry and (partly hidden) Tommy Griggs of the teen side. The youngest are Marie and Tom, children of Councilman Hendry.

This Is PRINCETON

THE MAGIC KEY

For Teen Center. Pizza and hot-dogs, ping-pong and pool, coffee and a guitar and at long last, "a place to go."

The door opened on that promise Saturday morning, as a delegation of teens and adults accepted the key to the Borough building at 102 Witherspoon that will be the home of the new Youth Center.

The key was presented in smiling ceremony to Mrs. Raymond F. Male, adult president of Princeton Youth Center Inc., by Borough Mayor Henry S. Patterson. The building, still owned by the Borough, formerly housed the Borough's engineering department. It is still the home of the United Fund, and will be until the Fund's campaign is over, around October 15.

"I confidently expect this teen center to be a success," Mayor Patterson said firmly. "Now, all you have to do is roll up your sleeves and get to work inside!

"I'm delighted that the community is behind this so wholeheartedly," the mayor continued. "It's a great addition to the Princeton community—and I say 'community' because the Center will be open to Borough and Township residents and people from other communities as well."

You Come, Too. It wasn't all speeches. The key-passing drew a collection of about two dozen people, including neighbors like Bryan Moore, and Borough Councilman of various political persuasions like Robert Hendry, who is a Democrat, and Alfred E. Sorensen who is a Republican and Alan Carrick and Fred Peterson who are both running for office.

Mr. Hendry thoughtfully brought along a pair of potential teen-agers, age 3 and 4, who looked the place over carefully to make sure everything will still be running smoothly ten years from now.

A fund drive will be launched after October 15, Mrs. Male has announced, and she is confident that will be a success, too.

Other fund money may come from Federal sources. Archibald S. Alexander Jr., Democratic candidate for mayor, talked this week with Congressman Frank Thompson about youth center money from either the Office of Economic Opportunity or the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Now! But right now, the emphasis is on right now. Robert Engerbretson talked eagerly this week about his new job as new director of the new center and the new plans he hopes to see come to life.

The joint teen-adult board met Tuesday to listen to each other's plans, and to see how that key can turn in the lock, and Mr. E. emphasizes that maybe the teens will want something besides his ideas.

"We'll start in the basement with the coffee-house," said Mr. Engerbretson, beginning at the bottom and going up. "In a couple of weeks, we'll have vending machines down there for coffee, hot chocolate, candy, pastry. . . .

"First, of course, the kids have to get in there and sweep and clean up, and decide what to paint on those concrete basement walls.)

"We hope to finish that basement kitchen eventually, but it needs a lot of work, so we're going to start with vending machines."

Mr. Engerbretson and Mrs. Male like the idea of acquiring, on a concession basis, a "radar range" which cooks a pizza or a hot dog faster than you can say "Mozzarella." Then the kitchen itself—and it's a sizable one—could be used by girls (boys) who are learning to cook.

Got a Chair? "We'd like to have this basement for lunches, you see, and not just for coffeehouse things," the director says.

This means furnishings, and right now, they are in the future. Mr. Hendry, who works at RCA, has a line on some rejected RCA floor cushions of great size (they get bigger every time they are mentioned) but anyone with coffeehouse furniture is invited to contribute.

(Upstairs, they could use living room furniture, metal filing cabinets, folding chairs, desks. . . .)

For the main floor and beyond, Mr. Engerbretson has more plans. Pool tables and ping-pong tables will go in two big rooms to the left of the Witherspoon entrance. The room with the fireplace will probably be a "quiet" room where you can sit and talk or maybe watch TV if somebody contributes a TV set,or listen to hi-fi, if ditto.

On the second floor is a stage, and Mr. Engerbretson has heard about the dramatic talent among Princeton's teen-agers to be very much excited about that stage.

Your Throw. When there isn't an audience, he wants to use the big room for a dance floor, for indoor volleyball, for indoor badminton. He wants mats for boxing and judo, and a place where boys can do weight-lifting, and a place to store the weights.

A "brown belt" man in judo, Mr. Engerbretson plans to teach both boys and girls but he's so enthusiastic about having all that room for mats and nets that he wonders, some what sheepishly, about what the girls will do. Besides watch boys lift weights.

"Well, we want an arts and crafts center with a wheel you can make pots on — my wife has a degree in arts and she's very handy — and we'll have that in the big Green Street room, maybe."

He also likes the idea of a place where girls can learn, or at least practice, sewing and knitting. Above all he wants to keep the second floor programs flexible so that sewing gear and volleyball and knitting yarn can be moved out of the way if not in use.

He would also like, and so would a lot of the teen agers, a band practice room. Maybe something on the Witherspoon side of the building, where neighbors couldn't hear. Something adjoining the cemetery, perhaps?

"We can make adjustments as needs come up, and as people want things," Mr. Engerbretson says.

Mrs. Male would like an eventual hedge enclosing the building to make a vest-pocket park. Here, townspeople could sit in the sun during the day time, and teen-agers could sit after school. The building has a nice combination of shade and sun, and the possibility of some kind of small-scale outdoor activity in the west parking lot which won't be used as it is now.

Tenants Wanted. Princeton Youth Center, Inc. will of course, have tenants in its new building. The first one is the League of Women Voters, which has rented mimeographing space.

Any group that wants to rent the Center is asked to write, before November 1, to Princeton Youth Center, Inc. 100 Witherspoon.

The great big landlord, of course, is the Borough, and Mrs. Male is full of praise for the co-operation she has had from mayor and council. She hopes to move across the line and obtain Township co-operation, as well.

Mrs. Male points out that Borough youngsters will be a minority of those using the Center, and she plans to approach Township Committee for some financial support. Eventually she hopes the entire operation will come under the Joint Recreation Commission.

VOTE FOR ME?

Campaign Continues. "I am amazed that Mr. Alexander does not understand that a municipal government has nothing to do with the school tax," said Republican Mayor Henry S. Patterson this week, commenting on last week's remarks from his Democratic opponent, Archibald S. Alexander Jr.

Mr. Alexander had expressed concern over rising taxes in the Borough, "particularly in the light of the increase in state aid to education."

"Princeton is a minimum-aid school district," the mayor explained, "because the state aid formula is based chiefly on need. Also school aid is a comparatively small part of the school budget, accounting for about $430,000 of the $5.3 million budget."

"Each Princeton taxpayer got an explanation last winter from the school board explaining why an increase in the school tax was necessary, and showing that state aid would decrease," the mayor continued. "If Mr. Alexander is blaming me for the tax rise, he may not understand that I have nothing to do with the school tax rate."

Meanwhile, Mr. Alexander went to Washington and conferred with Congressman Frank Thompson for two hours about the possibility of Federal funds to finance the Borough's primary needs."

Mr. Alexander questioned Congressman Thompson about the availability of funds under the Higher Education Act of 1965 and similar legislation, to provide scholarship assistance and to finance new construction at Princeton University.

"I predict" said Congressman Thompson, "that Archie Alexander will make an excellent mayor of Princeton Borough. During the many years that I have known Mr. Alexander, he has demonstrated a grasp of government at all levels. This is essential for the mayor of even a small borough like Princeton which must apply an imaginative approach to intergovernmental relations if it is to preserve its qualities under the pressures of today."

Got A Canoe?

The Red Cross wants to borrow it, if you have. Not to escape an Iroquois War party, but to use for teaching life-saving and water safety.

It must be a 15-foot fibre-glass canoe, and these specifications are important because water canoeing is done in a swimming pool where tiles can be damaged by canoes that are big and heavy.

Canoe owners who would like to be canoe lenders, should call the Red Cross at 924-2401.

CONDEMNATION URGED

Of Post Office Site. Melvin C. Firman, president of the Princeton Chamber of Commerce, this week wrote the Postmaster General urging condemnation of the North Harrison Street land which the Township Zoning Board rejected last month as a possible site for the post office.

Mr. Firman pointed out to Lawrence F. O'Brien, President Johnson's Postmaster General, that the Princeton Post Office handles 78 million pieces of first-class mail annually, that the two buildings currently in use are far too small for such volume, and that the campaign for a new building has been waged for the past six years.

Affirming the Chamber's belief that the site recently under consideration was "the most suitable" and has been selected by "qualified experts," Mr. Firman commented that "we recognize that there will always be objections from the residents immediate to the said site. His letter concludes:

"We urge you to proceed with condemnation of the site, construction of the building, and thereby get along with the business of providing the postal service your experts know that we do and will need. The site which the Zoning Board rejected for post office use is near Opinion Research, about a quarter mile north of the Shopping Center.

ORDINANCE UNDER FIRE

From Alexander, ACLU, Unitarians. Democratic Mayoralty candidate Archibald S. Alexander and Robert Worcester of the Mercer County Chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union assailed the Borough's proposed new anti-loitering ordinance as unjust and ineffective at a discussion at the Unitarian Church Sunday.

Mayor Henry Patterson and Patrolman Ralph Procaccino defended the bill before the group of 30 teenagers, most of them hostile to the proposal.

The proposal, which is aimed primarily at teenage "loiterers" on Nassau Street, provides for the arrest of "any congregation" which refuses to obey a policeman's command to disperse after one of its members has obstructed the use of private property or made offensive remarks.

Mr. Alexander and Mr. Worcester felt that the ordinance implied guilt by association" and that it did not adequately define the offenses. "It leaves the exercise of the law to the discretion of the individual cop on the beat," Mr. Worcester complained.

NEGOTIATION NOW: Mrs. Henry S. Broad and Mrs. T. C. Allen man the petition table on Nassau Street for "Negotiation Now," the citizens' campaign for peace in Vietnam. Close to 2,000 signatures have been obtained in the Princeton community, according to Mrs. H. Marston Morse, a volunteer chairman. The petitions will be taken to Washington this Sunday for the national assembly of "Negotiation Now." Mrs. Paul Fussell is Princeton general chairman.

Criticizing the "vague" wording, Mr. Worcester suggested that the use of the word "congregation" indicated that the bill could be used to disperse religious gatherings. He also worried that it might be used to break up peaceful civil rights and anti war demonstrations.

Noting that the Social Action Committee of the Unitarian Church had opposed the ordinance on moral grounds, Mr. Worcester explained that his objections were primarily constitutional.

Infringement on Rights? Mr. Alexander agreed that the ordinance might infringe on the right of association and suggested that it might, also have the effect of "discrediting the Borough and the police in the eyes of the teenagers because the police will try to assert their authority and fail."

He claimed that nothing in the proposal would prevent the group from re-assembling immediately after dispersing. He also suggested that it might be very difficult to obtain a conviction for offensive language because of the problem of proving that a specific member of the group had used such language.

Even if it did prove enforceable, Mr. Alexander thought, the ordinance might have the effect of forcing teenagers off the street "where you can see what they're doing" into more secluded locales where they might be tempted to sexual misconduct or drug use.

Mayor Patterson agreed with the two critics that some of the wording was vague, particularly in the "offensive language" provision. "What constitutes offensive language to me might be pleasurable to someone else," he admitted.

However, he said that similar ordinances existed in other New Jersey municipalities and that they had been upheld in the courts as being sufficiently specific.

Police Supported. Mr. Patterson disputed the implication that the borough police might abuse the authority given them by the ordinance. "It will not be used as a means of herding people from the bright lights to the dark lights," he said.

Mr. Patterson said that the ordinance would give the police the necessary authority to deal with the "small minority of teenagers who are not conscious of the rights of others and are causing a problem for the property owners on Nassau Street and the people who want to use their facilities."

Patrolman Procaccino supported the proposal, claiming that the police needed "something with a little teeth in it" to deal with the loitering problem on Nassau Street. Three teenagers also spoke at the meeting and told of incidents in which small groups they were in on Nassau Street had been told by Borough Police to move from locations where

"Welcome" to Borough Hall

An informal "Open House" will be held in the new Borough Hall on Sunday, October 29 from 2 to 5 p.m. Everyone, taxpayer or not, Borough resident or not, is invited to attend.

Formal dedication ceremonies will not be held until mid-November or early December, Mayor Henry S. Patterson said this week.

"I feel very strongly that Governor Hughes should be present at the dedication, and he won't be available until after election," the mayor said.

At the "Open House," visitors may tour the building and its garden, talk with department heads, and peer into the jail. No refreshments, but there are several nice drinking fountains.

they were neither obstructing traffic nor bothering passers by.

While defending most of the provisions, Mr. Patterson said that he did have some reservations about the bill and that he was not taking a definite stand for or against it after the hearing on it which will be held Tuesday at the October Council meeting.

CAN WE PARK HERE?

Study Will Tell. The Borough's Master Plan put forward a lot of ideas about Princeton's central business district. But are they really economically possible, and can parking requirements be adjusted around them?

Princeton's business community has contributed $8,000 for the study that will, every body hopes, give the answer. If it's "yes" the Planning Board can go ahead and revise the zoning ordinance to match the Master Plan.

Arthur P. Morgan, chairman of the Borough Planning Board, announced at the Board's Tuesday night meeting that Larry Smith and Company of New York City had been retained to collect the $8,000 and make the study. Deadline: December 1.

The Smith firm was chosen from many applicants by a committee consisting of Mr. Morgan, Ridgely Cook and Fred Blalcher. Mr. Blalcher is president of Palmer Square, Inc. and Mr. Cook is associated with Edmund Cook & Co. realtors.

Borough Will Pay, Too. Eventually, there will be a contribution of Borough money, emphasized Mayor Henry S. Patterson at the Planning Board meeting. "It's important for the Borough to have a financial stake in this," he commented.

Who will pay how much, hasn't yet been decided May- or Patterson suggested a possible Borough contribution of $2,000 either from the Planning Board's '68 budget, or extra money in the Borough's safty.

Planning Board member John Hinchman suggested a three way split of the ball among Borough, University and Palmer Square, Inc., so that everybody who benefits would have an equal voice. But Mayor Patterson said the Planning Board, as the boss, has a one hundred-percent voice.

Mr. Morgan commended Princeton's contributing business firms for their "farsight edness and generosity."

The Board voted to write a letter to the state about the new 50-50-payment policy on improving roads. (See Topics of the Town, September 21).

Planning Board member Norman Williams proposed, and the rest of the Board agreed, to tell the state three things: a widened Cleveland Lane should be taken off the state's map; the Borough doesn't intend to apply for funds for any 50-50 road improvements this year; the Borough will support the Township and West Windsor fully if they decide to ask for money to build the southwest quadrant of the Loop Road.

SQUIBB DECISION OFF

For Two Weeks. The Lawrence Township Zoning Board has put off for two weeks a decision on an application for a special use permit, which would allow E. R. Squibb & Sons to locate on Route 206 and Province Line Road. A special hearing has been set for 7 p.m. Thursday, October 19.

In a short meeting last Thursday night the board received a report from the Township's planning committee which conditionally approved the proposal. The board had been expected to hear the case Thursday evening, but John L. Stonaker, the board's attorney, ruled that the applicant had prematurely sent out notices to landowners without the board's authority.

Approval from the zoning board could be the last municipal hurdle Squibb must clear to locate in Lawrence, but the legal battle is far from over. The North Lawrence Citizens Assn. has plans to fight the zoning revision, and Princeton Township has also undertaken legal action.

Frederic G. Stickel III, attorney for the Township, told the board members that he would question their right to hear the case at the October 19 meeting. Squibb's lawyer Harvey L. Stern also request ed permission to argue against Mr. Stickel's objection at that time.

TWO HOMES RANSACKED

In Township. Two Township homes were entered and ransacked last week.

Police said that the home of Mrs. Josephine Souter, 288 Jefferson Road, was entered between Friday afternoon and Sunday by someone who pried a window pane loose in order to reach in and unlock a rear door. The home was completely ransacked.

Apparently all that was taken was a TV set valued at $112.50 Patrolmen Samuel Bianco and Mario Musso investigated.

On Friday, between 9:40 a.m. and 1:50 p.m., the home of Hana Rosenhaupt, Mount Lucas Road, was ransacked after the intruder gained entry through a kitchen door. Police report that an undetermined amount of silverware was taken from the dining room, as well as assorted pieces of jewelry.

Detectives Fred Porter and Norman Servis are investigating. Detective Porter said that he did not believe the robberies were the work of the same burglar.

Early October, and where's the red and gold? The fall foliage may be a bit later this year, a normal development after an unusually wet summer.

The weather for the next few days should be just about right for everybody. Turning a bit cooler after the unseasonal 80-degree temperatures at midweek, but remaining mild and generally fair right through the weekend.

These volunteers are trained by the Red Cross, and no special qualifications are necessary. Volunteer nurses are also needed to take medical histories and blood samples of the people who sign up as donors.

A four-hour training course for laymen volunteers and for nurses will be held in late October at a place and date to be announced. Anyone interested should call the Princeton Chapter of the Red Cross and 924-2404.

Under this new Group Plan, bloodmobiles from the New York-New Jersey Regional Center visit companies around Princeton each month to make blood collections from employees. This assures the employee of "blood coverage" anywhere in the country, anytime he is in need.

HOPEWELL YOUTH DIES

As Car Hits Pole. William R. Hall, 29, of Route 518, Hopewell, died in Mercer Hospital Saturday night, a short time after his car rammed a pole on Route 518 spur, next to Hiobela Sportland.

State Police said that the youth apparently failed to make a curve in the road about 7 p.m. He was alone in the car. Taken to the hospital by the Hopewell First Aid Squad, he died shortly of chest injuries.

Born in the Bronx, he was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Hall. He had attended Central High School of the Hopewell Valley Regional School System and worked in the Pennington Market.

In addition to his parents he is survived by a brother, David; four sisters, Maureen, Margaret and Patricia; and Mrs. Everett Henderson of Hopewell.

He was buried Wednesday in the parish cemetery of St. Alphonsus Church.

Three Students Struck. Three students at Princeton Day School were struck by a car on The Great Road at 8:30 Thursday night, after attending a rally for the PDS-Rutgers football game.

Injured were Christopher Reeve, 15, 23 Campbelton Circle, bruised ankle; Robert Korman, 16, 371 Riverside Drive, contusions of the head lacerations and abrasions of the left leg; and Molly Hall, 16, 12 Maple Street.

Miss Hall received a concussion, lacerations of the head and contusions of the lower back. She was admitted to Princeton Hospital for observation and released the next day.

Pfl Frank Boccanfuso, the investigating officer, charged the driver, Mrs. Victoria Johnson, 47, of Trenton, with driving with only one headlight. Mrs. Johnson told him she had dimmed her lights for a passing car and shortly after saw a group of children walking in the same lane as she was driving.

She said that she veered right thinking they were about to cross the roadway. Instead they moved right into the path of her car. The impact threw Miss Hall and Korman over a rail fence.

The mishap occurred some 600 feet below the school. Witnesses told Pfl. Boccanfuso there was another group of students walking on the other side of the road, parallel to a group of seven of which the three that were hit were a part.

Pfl. Boccanfuso charged the three students with walking with traffic instead of facing it as required.

GET OUT THE BROOM

Clean-Up On Nassau. Littering seems to be as much of a problem on Nassau Street as loitering, and Borough officials have decided to launch Clean-up Week next Monday by holding a 9 a.m. Borough Hall Conference with center-city stores.

Mayor Henry S. Patterson said this week that he and Engineer Thomas J. Cawley and Administrator Robert F. Mooney will meet with shop-owners and renters from Nassau Street and Witherspoon Streets to exchange clean-up ideas.

The Jaycees, said the mayor, are considering using some of their Giants-Eagles gate money to hire young men and women clean-up patrols through the Youth Employment Service. These teen-agers would work the uptown streets, especially on week-ends, trying to keep up with the fallout.

"It's an idea that appeals very much to me," the mayor said. Trash on Nassau Street has been an increasing problem in recent years, the mayor observed at his press conference. He said that Mr. Cawley's crews make a clean sweep early in the morning, seven days a week, only to find new litter on the ground by noon. And football week-ends. . . . . !

Rules for Householders. Mr. Cawley asks Borough householders to clear alleys and yards of debris, and to clean out attics and cellars.

All material should be placed on containers and put at curbside for collection on the regular refuse pick-up days. Bundles must be the size that one man can lift. Branches and brush must be tied into bundles.

The dump on River Road will be open Sunday, October 15 and Sunday, October 22 from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Similar regulations are in effect in the Township. The leaf collection schedule appears elsewhere in this issue.

DOCTOR'S BAG STOLEN

Trenton Men Charged. Two Trenton men have been charged by Township police with possession of stolen property and possession of narcotic paraphernalia which they allegedly stole from a doctor's car parked in the Shopping Center.

Comitted to Mercer County Jail in lieu of $3,250 bail was Richard DiBenedetti, 26, who was also charged by Detective Fred Porter with failing to have his narcotics registration card in his possession. Sent to jail in lieu of $3,000 bail was Carlos L. Velasquez, 31. Both were scheduled to appear Wednesday before Township Municipal Court Judge Glen B. Miller Jr.

The two were spoted looking into parked cars in Bamberger's north parking lot at the Shopping Center at 10:35 Monday morning by off-duty Patrolman Howard Sweeney. The police investigation conducted by Detective Fred Porter and Detective Norman Servis revealed that they had in their possession stolen narcotic paraphernalia they had taken from a doctor's bag belonging to Dr. Milton Marion, 410 S. Main Street, Pennington.

Detective Porter said that Dr. Marion's car had been looted Friday night while parked at the Shopping Center.

PASS HOUSING "NEED" In Township. "Yes, but . . ." was the unanimous response of Township Committee Monday night as its members voted the "declaration of need" required by the new state law before any middle-income housing funds can be obtained.

The Township Planning Board had written in Committee recommending the declaration, but reminding Committee members that the Board's endorsement doesn't constitute a policy declaration on the Master Plan.

"I intend to vote for this declaration," commented Committeeman Burton K. Peskin, "but I'd like to point out that no figures or details have been supplied by the proponents of middle-income housing. We must pass this declaration so that those who believe this to be in the best interests of the Township, can procede."

Mr. Peskin, Mayor Carl C. Schafer and Committeeman John Wallace emphasized their feeling that any middle-income housing should be for people now working or living in either Borough or Township.

Planning Board Approves. "I want to help present residents of Borough and Township stay here," stated Mayor Schafer. "If this is the way, we should give it every consideration. I hope it doesn't open new avenues for everybody who thinks he'd like to live in Princeton."

Mr. Wallace told Committee that the Planning Board, on which he serves, is unanimous in wanting endorsement of "need."

"A concrete proposal may help us in our desire to solve this need for middle income housing," Mr. Wallace commented.

"To a degree, this is subsidized housing," warned Committeeman William L. Wilson. "Let's understand this: somebody else picks up part of the tab for people who would live in this housing. This means it's now our policy that some people are entitled to a special break. But we should give these people of good will a chance to move ahead."

No specific number of units is indicated, and anything proposed would be subject to the usual planning and zoning controls, Committee pointed out.

The Borough has already passed its own "declaration of need."

George Alexander, for Princeton Community Housing, Inc., thanked Mayor Schafer and Committee for their action.

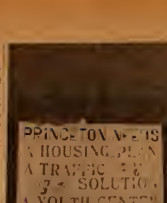
Schools and Traffic. Traffic around the John Witherspoon School and Princeton High School has occupied the Traffic Safety Committee, reported Engineer Frank Quimby. He asked for an ordinance prohibiting parking, stopping or standing on the north side of Guyot Avenue between Ewing and Walnut; that is, across Guyot from the John Witherspoon School.

Such an ordinance would keep mothers from swinging into Guyot and dropping their children on the wrong side of the street.

The Rev. W. J. Beeners, 253 Walnut Lane, who lives across Guyot from the school, told Committee feelingly that traffic around the school was "hell," especially when it rains and more mothers car pool. He suggested one-way streets, and Mr. Quimby replied that Traffic Safety hoped the new ordinance would make things flow more smoothly. The Rev. Mr. Beeners also spoke gloomily about football game cars that park on the grass next to the new Guyot sidewalk.

"I hope we can keep this traffic situation continually in mind," said Mayor Schafer.

Earlier in the evening, Committee unanimously passed the ordinance providing sidewalks and curbs on both sides of Witnut Lane, leading up to the school complex from Valley Road



BEN SHAHN SIGNS ON: Ben Shahn, noted American artist who lives in Roosevelt, N. J., has designed a campaign poster for Archibold S. Alexander Jr., Democratic candidate for mayor of the Borough. About 50 copies autographed by Mr. Shahn will be sold to raise campaign funds. About 450 more will be distributed around town, the poster reads: "Princeton needs a housing plan, a traffic solution, a youth center, minimized taxation, a mayor available to all. Princeton needs Archie Alexander." The lettering is black and red. Some copies have a white background, some a yellow background. Mr. Shahn told the candidate he had created the poster "out of a sense of friendship and a feeling of common interest in Princeton's future."

The inclusion of curbs in such an ordinance is new, and Committeeman Wilson asked whether Committee felt that it was establishing a new policy.

Each case will be decided on the basis of need and local interest so far as curbs are concerned, Mayor Schafer replied. He added that the Township gets a better dollar deal when curbs are done at the same time.

Representatives of the New Jersey and New York Airport Limousine Service appeared to ask Committee's opinion of a Princeton - Kennedy - La Guardia limousine service which would leave from Nassau and Princeton Inns on an hourly basis at $10 per passenger for the 90-minute ride.

Committee's agreement is sought before the company appears later this fall before the Interstate Commerce Commission for a license. The firm also seeks P.U.C. approval for an intra-state service to Teterboro and Newark Airports. Committee agreed to talk it over.

Public hearing will be held on Wednesday, October 18 at 10:30 a.m. in the State House Annex on Capitol Transit's request for a fare change. Administrator Joseph R. Nini reported.

GOAL SET AT $2,200

By Women Voters. The annual finance drive of the League of Women Voters will take place Saturday. Members of the League will call on those prospective donors who have not yet replied to the letters that were mailed several weeks ago.

The drive will begin with a short briefing meeting at the home of Mrs. John Bowen, 508 Terhune Drive Road. Mrs. Albert Morckwardt, finance chairman in charge of the drive, will explain the day's assignments to her committee.

The League of Women Voters is conducting the drive to supplement the income it receives from dues and membership donations. The League, operating in Princeton Borough and Township and West Windsor Township is a non-partisan political information organization.

Its projects include "Meet the Candidate Nights" in which area residents get a chance to meet the men of both parties who are running for office. In addition the League sends nonpartisan information sheets about the candidates to area voters.

Other projects are the preparation of a map of Princeton Borough and Township — scheduled to go on sale within a month — and a survey of housing needs in the Princeton community. The League works in close conjunction with area organizations such as the Citizen's Advisory Committee on Housing.

He was taken to Princeton Hospital by the First Aid and Rescue Squad. Five sutures were needed to close the cut over his eye.

Frank Sascher of Newark will also remember the game. He told police a piece of luggage, a sweater and a transistor radio were stolen from his car while he was in the stadium. His car had been parked in a university lot off Broadmead, Township police said.

han S. Bhatia, 29, 47 N. Tulane Street, failure to yield at an intersection, and Sharon L. Davidson, 29, 66 Spruce Street, failure to observe a stop sign. Both leaded guilty.

Robert Flumberfelt, 19, South River-Cranbury Road, Cranbury, had his license suspended for 45 days by the state for exceeding the point limit. Ran Avrahami, 33, 137 N. Harrison Street, surrendered his license for one month under a reciprocity agreement with Connecticut where he was convicted of speeding.

APPEAL IS PLANNED

By Yavneh Club. Last week, the Borough Zoning Board denied an appeal for a variance by the Yavneh Society of Princeton to use a single dwelling at 46 Wiggins as a kosher eating place for its members, four of whom would also sleep there. Yavneh is a group of some 20 Orthodox Jewish students at Princeton University, which told the board it had not been able to find facilities for kosher food anywhere in Princeton.

The board turned the request down — the actual applicant was Benjamin Kahn, owner of the property — on the peal grounds that Mr. Kahn had been unable to show any undue hardship or extraordinary or exceptional situations for the property itself. The house is located in a residential zone.

Earlier this week, Richard Mandelbaum, vice president of Yavneh, reported that the society planned an appeal and would consult a lawyer with in the next few days. The appeal would be heard in Superior Court in Trenton with no jury. The club has 30 days in which to file its appeal.

Miss Patricia Slane was the attorney for Yavneh. She told the board there was an immediate need and that there was nowhere the group could turn if their application were rejected. She asked the boys he given a chance to try it and said that they would be willing to accept reasonable conditions.

Present Petition. Louis Gerber, attorney representing one of the adjacent property owners, Mrs. Evelyn Tetzie, 44 Wiggins, presented a petition signed by 25 neighbors who said that they were "unolterably opposed" to the application.

Mr. Gerber told the board it had to look beyond ethnic considerations. "This is an application to destroy the character of this neighborhood," He added if it granted the variance, the board would be opening the door for all little religious groups in the community and at the same time destroying the purpose of zoning.

Mrs. Agnes Frohling of 12 Stockton Street, was granted a request to continue renting out five parking places in the rear of her home. The board stipulated the cars must be parked in a designated area on the west side of the yard. The variance was granted for a period of two years and would terminate with any change in ownership.

The application was opposed by Mrs. Anne Yandell, 11 Mercer Street whose rear yard butts the Frohling property. Her attorney, Seymour Montgomery, tried to have the application dismissed on the grounds that Mrs. Frohling had never obtained a variance as required by zoning introduced in 1941. "(I don't believe the point of this ordinance was to carry on a non conforming use for 26 years," he said.

Miss Slane, Mrs. Frohling's attorney, replied she felt the aim of the ordinance was one of control, not an attempt to "zone out" non conforming uses.

Mr. Montgomery introduced as evidence pictures taken by Mrs. Yandell that reportedly showed as many as 17 cars parked at one time in Mrs. Frohling's yard. Mrs. Yandell complained of the noise, dust and odors generated by the cars.

Yes to Nursery School. In a third case, the Princeton Cooperative Nursery School was granted a use permit to locate its nursery in the Lutheran Church. The school has 17 children ranging from 3 to 5 and is owned and operated by the parents of the children.

Dr. William Abrams' request for a parking variance that would allow him to convert the first floor of his building at 199 Nassau Street from office use to retail was denied. The board ruled that no sufficient evidence had been presented to justify the board granting parking relief for the total of seven parking spaces involved.

James C. Bennett, attorney for Dr. Abrams, told the board there was adequate room for parking in the rear but that Dr. Abrams had been unable

Rake Those Leaves

If you've never voted on Princeton Township, you may not know how to plan your leaf-raking this fall.

Township Engineer Frank Quinby will send his leaf vacuum out starting Monday, October 16, on a schedule based on election districts. Leaves must be raked to the curb line (not pushed into the gutter) and no twigs, lawn cuttings or branches will be allowed. Here's the slate:

Districts 5 and 6: Tuesday

District 3 and 9: Wednesday

District 2: Thursday

Districts 7 and 8: Fridays

Faithful veteran of many a fire, this 1922 American LaFrance pumper served the Hopewell Fire Department for 32 years in the front firing line before it was transferred to the Rockwell Manufacturing Company of Hopewell, in 1953. The engine was returned to the fire department this year. Hopewell's fire-fighters and first-aid men have recently ordered a new American LaFrance to replace a 1948 pumper, and a new Cadillac ambulance. BUSINESS
In Princeton

CONSTRUCTION BEGUN

On Education Center. Ground has been broken for an education center for advanced training courses for supervisory, technical and other management personnel by the Western Electric company.

Located near the company's engineering research center on Carter Road, the building will include classrooms, laboratory and computer facilities, an auditorium and a library. A residence building on the opposite side of the road will provide housing for up to 360 students and 90 staff members.

Western Electric, the manufacturing and supply unit of the Bell System, now conducts training programs in management functions at eight different locations. These programs will be consolidated at the new complex.

Designed by Frank Grad & Sons of Newark, the buildings will be set back from the road and will be suitably landscaped.

SPORTS STORE BOUGHT

By Petrone, Kopliner, Donald. Three lifelong Princeton residents with a love for sports have purchased Frank's Sports Shop in the Princeton Shopping Center.

Jack Petrone of Valley Road, Mike Kopliner of Dorann Avenue and Stanley "Skitch" Donald of Hamilton Avenue purchased the store from owner Frank Ferrara. Mr. Ferrara opened his first sports store 21 years ago on Nassau Street, near Davidson's Market. For the past 12 he has been located in the Princeton Shopping Center.

The new owners have renamed their store Center Sports. In addition to being Princeton-born and raised with a penchant for playing golf together, all three are the fathers of boys only. Mr. Petrone has five ranging from 14 to 18 months. His oldest son and Mr. Kopliner's only son are both freshmen at the Hun School.

Mr. Donald's lone son also attends Hun, where he is he punter for the school's football team. With such a built-in trade, who needs customers?

Mr. Petrone helped to organize the PBA Baseball League and more recently the Midget Football League. Both Mike and Skitch are affiliated with the football league. Skitch also helped organize the Little League here.

Center Sports offers a complete line of sports equipment. The store, with the largest area in Princeton devoted exclusively to sporting equipment, is filled with everything immaginable from field hockey equipment for the ladies to pool cues for aspiring Willie Mosconi's

There is a large choice in ski and hunting equipment, golf needs, ice skates, weights, jodhpur and riding boots, tennis, sportswear, football equipment and shoes, archery — the stock is endless.

Center Sports will be open weekdays from 9:30 to 6 p.m. It will remain open Thursday and Friday evenings til 9.

Charles A. Lennon

NEW PRESIDENT NAMED

At Princeton Savings. Charles A. Lennon of Kenilworth has been named president of the Princeton Savings & Loan Association. He succeeds Mrs. Charlotte Dougherty, who reached the mandatory retirement age.

Mr. Lennon comes to Princeton Savings, the county's oldest insured savings and loan association, from City Federal Savings & Loan Association in Elizabeth. An assistant vice president there, he served as manager of both the Kenilworth and Cranford branches.

A 1951 graduate of Fordham University, Mr. Lennon also graduated from the Savings & Loan Executive Development School of the University of Georgia. Twelve of his 15 years in the savings and loan field were spent with City Federal. He is a World War II veteran of the Army Engineers.

A past president of the Kenilworth Board of Education, Mr. Lennon was named the town's "Citizen of the Year," in 1965 by the Lions Club. He has also served as president of the Kenilworth Rotary Club and the Kenilworth Businessman's Association.

MERCER APPLIES, LIVE

For CATV Franchise. An application for a Trenton community antenna TV franchise chose prime time for the premiere of his show, demonstrating cable TV vs. normal TV in a live session before Trenton's city council last Wednesday.

The applicant is Mercer Community Television, Inc., two of whose stockholders are the Nassau Broadcasting Company (owners of WIWH and WTOA) and Reeves Broadcasting Company.

Working after hours to provide a nice element of surprise for Trenton's councilmen, WTOA's engineering staff and workmen from the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company laid all the technical groundwork so that councilmen only had to wait 15 minutes before the show began.

MCTV entrepreneurs took into the council chamber a 21-inch Conrac monitor and a standard 17-inch home receiver, brand new. Coaxial cable connections were dropped through the roof, brought through the windows and connected to the Conrac.

Then council members watched several New York and Philadelphia channels, comparing Conrac with pictures from a normal home receiver.

After this, MCTV turned on a live, three-minute television special (a newscast) from the WTOA studios a mile away. Arthur A. Silver, director of engineering for the Nassau Broadcasting Company, supervised and planned the entire operation.

REALTY FIRM FORMED

In Montgomery Township. Eric J. Nystrom has announced the formation of the Nystrom Realty Company in Montgomery Township.

Dealing in all types of real estate, the company will be located in Mr. Nystrom's home at Skillman Road, Skillman, until a suitable office can be found.

A lifelong resident of Montgomery Township, Mr. Nystrom has had several years of experience in real estate. A graduate of U.C.L.A., he was associated with the Hilton Realty company for two and a half years, before working for the Civil Service in Trenton as a real estate examiner.

CURTISS APPOINTED

RCA Staff Vice-President. Arthur N. Curtiss, 352 Dodds Lane, formerly director of administration, has been appointed as staff vice-president, administration, at RCA Laboratories.

Mr. Curtiss will continue to be responsible for administrative and business activities at RCA's central research organization, and will continue as a Director of Laboratories RCA, Inc., the company's research facility in Japan.

Starting with RCA in 1930, Mr. Curtiss held several engineering positions in Camden and Indianapolis. Before joining RCA Laboratories in 1961, he was general manager of RCA West Coast Missile and Surface Radar Division in Los Angeles.

A graduate of the University of Pittsburgh in 1927 with a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering, Mr. Curtiss did graduate work there, at Purdue, the University of Pennsylvania and UCLA.

Teens Set Roles. The first of this season's dances at The Basement in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church will be held from 8 to 11:30 this Friday. Procedures and rules drawn up by The Basement Committee, chaired by Bill Hartley, reflect some of the problems encountered by the youth canteens and dances.

Admission is by membership only, and open to students enrolled in Princeton's secondary schools. New cards are being issued by Bob Kramer and his admissions committee. Members' dates will be admitted as guests, "if they arrive with the member, and are not under suspension or revocation of their privileges."

Members caught drinking will be suspended for not less than a month. "Parents will be notified, and if the violation is such that the student is inebriated, parents will be asked to pick up said member and take him home.

"Anyone using or taking any type of narcotic or hallucinogenic drug will be suspended . . . and will have his (or her) parents notified. In addition proper police officials will be notified at the discretion of the director, William N. Kight, or Ralph Bloom, Jr. The philosophy governing this shall be that we are concerned with the health and welfare of each member above and beyond the confines of St. Andrew's Church and we feel a responsibility to help this person achieve some realistic approach to life. Therefore, we will cooperate with the police department, the high school and other such bodies in an effort to rehabilitate the individual involved, using such powers and judgment as we command."

Second Offenders Out. Smoking will be permitted in stated rooms, but not on the dance floor. Second offenders may be expelled from the dance and their membership suspended for a month. Chaperones will have the power to evict the violators.

Due to rising costs, admission is 75c; cokes and soda are 10c. A written report on the night's receipts, "itemized as to membership cards, admissions, refreshments, expenditures (band, policeman, supplies, etc.), profit or deficit, is to be submitted to Mr. Bloom, the church's commissioner on Christian Education, and Bill Kight."

Stating the hope that no memberships will be suspended or revoked this year and that no police action will be necessary, The Basement Committee adds, "We would also hope that communication might be created between the teenagers . . . and the adults serving as chaperones. . ."

Assisting Bill Hartley, the general chairman, are Peggy Hanley, treasurer and chaperone chairman; Claudia Dupre and Jackie Donath, clean-up; Paula Anderson and Diane Bardwell, decorations and setup; Bob Kramer, admissions; Alexander Donald, band; J. Lawrie Bloom, refreshments; Giff Marzonni and Cliff Granitzki, cloakroom, and Mary Derby, publicity.

WEEKDAY SCHOOL BEGINS

At First Presbyterian. An experiment in religious education began this week on Wednesday when the Princeton Presbyterian Commission opened a weekday school for youngsters in grades one through five.

"I have been thinking about this all year," says Mrs. George Fitzgerald, the prime mover of the school. The wife of the chaplain at Princeton Hospital, mother of two small children, and teacher of a Hightstown fifth grade class, she headed the enrichment program for the primary grades at First Presbyterian Church last year.

"I ENVISION a kind of laboratory school where professionals can teach the children, and people who care could observe," Mrs. George Fitzgerald says of the weekday church school launched Wednesday at First Presbyterian Church.

The youngsters will meet on Wednesdays from about 3:15 until 5 p.m. in St. Andrew's Church. In contrast to the brief hour on Sunday, "We'll have time to do things," Mrs. Fitzgerald says. "Time for activities, projects and field trips to get acquainted with what the Church is doing in the world." Mrs. Stanley E. Kerr is superintendent.

The group will use the imaginative curriculum developed by the United Church of Christ in order not to duplicate the material taught in the Sunday schools. An inter-denominational group of five students from the religious education program at Princeton Seminary will serve as teachers, working under the guidance of Miss Freda Gardner of the Seminary faculty.

"This is a natural in-service training program for the seminary students," Mrs. Fitzgerald notes. Eight years ago she and her husband were both students at the Seminary, and last spring she took further courses there. A graduate of the University of Arizona, she holds a master's degree in education from the University of Colorado.

"An Experiment." The informal, flexible weekday school is designed as an adjunct to Sunday School programs. "We call it a year's experiment," Mrs. Fitzgerald adds. "The children will come in school clothes. I've noticed that in their best clothes on Sunday they are reluctant to get dirty or messed up. In play clothes they are more likely to get involved. . . .

"For some, Sunday is a kind of rest day. It doesn't seem to be a day, psychologically, for education. Also, church is so crowded on Sundays, the children never get to see the ministers. The pastor is supposed to be the teaching elder. On Wednesday the clergy can be asked to come in and they'd get acquainted with the children.

"Families so often go out of town on Sundays. The children miss the continuity of the Sunday School lessons. Discipline is also a problem in many Sunday schools — new teachers are coming in all the time.

"We also hope to involve the parents," Mrs. Fitzgerald adds. The parents and teachers will be given opportunities to assess their work with the children through observation and evaluation of the sessions.

Husband a Pastor. The weekday school grew from the germ of Mrs. Fitzgerald's experience during her husband's years as a pastor of a Colorado church. She discussed the idea with the Rev. Dr. Donald M. Meisel. The next step was a series of discussions with Mrs. Martha Lou Stohlman, director of religious education at First Presbyterian, and Miss Gardner. The three women set the project on paper and it was presented to the Presbyterian Commission, representing the Presbyterian churches in Princeton, who endorsed the school as a joint venture, after study by its Christian education sub-committee composed of the Rev. John B. Paterson, Miss Faye Dickerson and Ralph Bloom Jr.

Enrollment at the weekday school, limited to about 50 children, is open "to anyone who is interested,' Mrs. Fitzgerald says. Tuition is $30, "payable in installments, if necessary," with reduced rates for more than one child in a family. Classes will be held from October 4 through December 6, and January 10 through April 3.

The hope is that the school will become a teaching laboratory by next spring with teachers from the various church schools and interested parents participating as observers.

IS GOD DEAD?

The Public's Answer. George Gallup III of Hopewell will speak at a Laymen's Communion Breakfast Sunday morning at 7 at the Pennington Methodist Church. His topic will be, "Is God Dead? -- The Public's Answer."

In gathering information on the voting behavior of various groups in the population, Mr. Gallup has traveled around the United States. Year 5728 Begins.

Rosh Hashanah, one of the most ancient and sacred days on the Jewish religious calendar and marking the New Year 5728, began Wednesday at sundown.

Emphasizing prayer and self-examination, Rosh Hashanah ushers in the ten High Holy Days, climaxed by Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement.

At the Princeton Jewish Center, services were scheduled to be held at 8:15 on Wednesday. An introductory morning service will be held at 8:30 a.m. on Thursday, and Friday, followed by Torah reading at 9:45, sermon by Rabbi Everet Gendler at 10:15 and the Shofar sounding and Musaf service at 10:45. There will be an evening service at 6 on Thursday and at 5:30 on Friday.

Because of limited space, tickets at no charge are required for admission to the services. Information may be obtained at the Center, 924-5493.

WE STARTED IN 1859 BUT... WE'RE NOT 108 YEARS OLD!

We're 108 years young. We're old enough to understand the soundness of time-tested basic ideas, but young enough to keep trying to improve them. Modernization and keeping abreast of new ideas and techniques is a must for today's successful business. We wouldn't be the world's largest food retailer if we weren't constantly thinking modern, thinking young. But some basic thinking never changes. Take that of our founder, for instance. He was dedicated, as we are, to bringing the most good food, to the most people, for the least amount of money. To being fair, honest and trustworthy. To caring about the people he served. No matter how progressive, how automated, how modern we become, we pledge to maintain these sound principles of our founder. Even when we're 208 years young!

Right Man, Wrong Office.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

As I approach the time of retirement and face the prospect of living on a retirement income and social security, it is indeed hopeful and refreshing to realize that a young man such as Mr. Archibald S. Alexander, Jr., who has lived in our community for only a few years and who aspires to be Mayor of the Borough, should be so concerned with the plight of the elderly people.

In his statement to TOWN TOPICS quoted in your issue of September 28, he charged Mayor Patterson with indifference and inaction as regards increased taxes. Unfortunately, Mr. Alexander did not offer his solution to this serious problem which faces all municipal, state and federal governments.

In these days when citizens are demanding more and more services from their governing bodies, it is nice to know that Mr. Alexander can provide them and at the same time decrease taxes. If Mr. Alexander can really do this, I would like to suggest that he is running for the wrong office, he should be running for President.

Is Princeton a Junk Yard?
To the Editor of Town Topics:

This is an open letter to the Borough candidates for Mayor.

Each resident of Princeton as he goes down Nassau Street, particularly on a Sunday morning, must say to himself, "Where am I — is this a junk yard or is this Princeton?" Each visitor must say, "Is this the Princeton about which I have heard so much?"

The deplorable presence of trash, dirt, and garbage on Nassau Street is a municipal problem that needs a solution. Many of the store owners care, fully clean up each morning; some even seven days a week. But some are lax. The solution to this problem is to provide more refuse containers, empty them more frequently, establish an anti-litter ordinance and enforce the present ordinance against conducting business on the sidewalk.

We have yet to hear either candidate mention the problem, let alone express his views regarding the solution. We are waiting, Mr. Candidate. What are your plans for the solution of this problem, if you are elected?

M. C. FIRMAN
President,
Chamber of Commerce
for the Board of Directors

(Note: Mayor Henry S. Patterson replies: "The Borough has been conferring with the Chamber of Commerce for years to enlist their co-operation in keeping Nassau Street clean. We met with Mr. Firman last June, and asked his help in getting merchants to co-operate. We told him about the Borough's seven-day trash pickup (see "Topics of the Town"), and that we had talked Palmer Square, Inc., into putting on a Sunday clean-up crew."

Last May, Administrator Robert F. Mowrey reminded merchants of the ordinance on litter. (A difficult one to enforce, because someone must actually see trash being dropped on the street.)

Mayor Patterson said that Ralph Mather, president of the First National Bank, had suggested to Chamber of Commerce directors that the Chamber write a letter praising the Borough on clean-up, and that Mr. Firman's letter was the result. "I deeply resent the implication that the Borough isn't doing anything," the mayor said.

Parking Was the Problem.

in Vietnam, will be held at 8 p.m. this Thursday at the Unitarian Church, Cherry Hill and State Roads. The meeting is an outgrowth of Sunday's sermon by the Rev. J. Howard Middleton, "The Government's Illegal and Immoral Intervention in Vietnam."

"Those who feel as I do," Mr. Middleton commented later, "and I think there are many in the church, are going to see what we can do in the community in regards to an educational campaign."

He said in his sermon that "We cannot be like the 'good Germans' who remained silent as Hitler marched his armies into World War II. What will we say when our children and grandchildren ask us, 'where were you in 1965-66-67?'"

Mr. Middleton said President Johnson "talks negotiations to the American people while he ignores attempts by U Thant to arrange them. He talks peace . . . while he bombs the Vietnamese." He said the only solution is United States military withdrawl from Vietnam. "Vietnam must be left to the Vietnamese . . . A massive public outcry against the Adminstration's policy and a strong move to oust Johnson in 1968 must be launched. Something must be done to stop our nation's madness."

SUSPICION: "The people of Laos do not mix with the Vietnamese to the East or the Cambodians and Thais to the west — and they are suspicious of all three," David Landman of Princeton University said at Thursday's Adult School lecture on Southeast Asia. He added, "The Cambodians, located between the Tais and the Vietnamese have over the years been invaded by both. By history and geography they have been conditioned to an attitude of neutrality at best, and often hostility. Today we are arming Vietnam and Thailand; Cambodia is stubbornly neutral. They are suspicious by 2,000 years of practice. This is something we should remember when we read the newspapers."

HOPEWELL UNITES

On Fight over I-95. Judging from the determination of residents attending the Hopewell Township committee meeting last week, it will be several years before Interstate Route 95 stretches any further into New Jersey.

More than 100 residents gave their support to Hopewell Township to continue its court fight against the current alignment of the four-lane expressway. The meeting had been scheduled to assess the residents' feelings on entering into extended legal action.

The first step, filing in the appelate division of the Superior court has already been taken, along with Franklin and Piscataway townships. It is hoped that this will solve one problem facing Hopewell — the lack of exact data on the proposed alignment, which the state has sent to the federal government.

Regardless of the exact route, however, the Township feels that too much of the highway will run within its boundaries, and this plus the large number of interchanges will take up too much land. The Township favors an alignment east of the Pennsylvania Railroad joining up at Interchange 8A of the New Jersey Turnpike.

Another objection to I 95 was voiced by Dr. William Nunan, superintendent of schools, who stated the possible adverse effects the superhighway could have on the Master Plan for schools in the Hopewell area.

Mr. Nunan pointed to land acquisition problems, loss of planned schol sites, and the problem of transporting children. More pupils would have to be bussed instead of walking to school if the route slices through the Township. In addition a large change in population, as envisioned by the state, would force a change in the master plan.

DILLEY TO SPEAK

At Wyman Club Meeting. Robert V. Dilley, executive director of the Princeton Chamber of Commerce, will address the Wyman Club, an organization of Princeton University undergraduate and graduate students' wives, at 8 p.m. on Tuesday in the faculty lounge of the Engineering Quadrangle.

Wives of new students are especially invited to attend. Mrs. Murray Woods, president, has announced. A series of get-acquainted coffees are being held in the Butler Tract and Lawrence Complex prior to the meeting.

Officers for the coming year include Mrs. Victor Mailey, vice-president; Mrs. C. W. Lockyer, secretary; Mrs. R. L. Hunsucker, treasurer; Mrs. Mrs. Joseph Starita, program; Mrs. Warren Buhler, publicity; Mrs. Michael Pittas and Mrs. J. Frederick Weinhold, Lady Taylor Fund co-chairmen, and Mrs. Kenneth Fleurant, activities chairman.

al Bldg. on St. Hwy 206, Princeton, N. J., may I point out two misleading statements in that article.

Mr. Gerald Stockman was counsel for The Rug and Furniture Mart Inc. I am president of that Corporation. He did not represent Roger W. Yard personally, or The Rug Mart.

The Rug and Furniture Mart Inc., its officers or its counsel could not care less whether the applicant sold furniture or peanuts. Our concern was the effect any operation in this area would have upon our parking rights in that area.

COME BACK TO PRINCETON

to this little grey house by the road. Happily located on a wee private lane, it is still only half a block from Nassau Street and within easy walking distance of town and gown. Perfect for a young family (three bedrooms, one and a half baths) or for the retiree who wants to dwindle to a small house with large rooms. Details include mellow panelling in the living and dining rooms, wide floor boards, private study with bookshelves enough for a professor, country kitchen with breakfast and laundry areas. And a gem of a patio sheltered by a grape arbor and surrounded by green thumb, no maintenance planting. For the buyer to whom location is of prime importance, this house is a real find. Ours alone at $51,500

SHAW IN PRINCETON?
Well, It Could Have Been . . . "The Devil's Disciple" laid in the New Hampshire of 1777, but Basil Langton, director of Shaw's comedy for McCarter, speculates that it could just as well have taken place in Princeton.

Audiences at the opening night this Friday at 8, can decide for themselves.

Mr. Langton, who knew Shaw, suggests that Princeton during the American Revolution might be just as relevant a locale as New England — a farm outside Hope well, perhaps?

Visits to Nassau Hall and to Bainbridge House," home of the Historical Society of Princeton, have inspired Mr Langton in mounting his production.

In "The Devil's Disciple," George Hearn will play the title role of Dick Dudgeon and Bryan Hull will be the Rev Anthony Anderson.

The minister's wife, Judith, will be Anne Gee Byrd. Phillip Piro will play Christy, brother of Dick, and Will Hicks will be Lawyer Hawkins. General Burgoyne, who has some nice Shavian lines to say, will be David Byrd.

After the "gala opening" on Friday, "The Devil Disciple" will play this Saturday at 8:30.

"HOGAN'S GOAT"

McCarter Special. The national touring company of the off-Broadway show, "Hogan's Goat," will come to McCarter Theatre for a single performance on Monday, October 23, at 8:30.

"Hogan's Goat" opened two years ago at the American Place Theatre, and was promptly referred to by Life Magazine as the "best American play of the year."

It's the story of Irish-Americans in Brooklyn politics in the last years of the 19th century. William Alfred, a professor of English at Harvard, wrote the play from stories he heard as a child from his grandmother.

HERE'S CHRISTY. Philip Piro plays the brother of "The Devil's Disciple" in McCarter Theatre's production of Shaw's version of the Revolutionary War. Opening night: this Friday.

COME TO MCCARTER . . . Fall Events. Dylan Thomas' growing pains will be relived next Monday at 8:30 in McCarter Theatre with the Welsh actor Emlyn Williams reading his program of excerpts from Dylan Thomas' poetry.

"Before the Revolution", the Bernardo Bertolucci film, will be shown the next night, Tuesday, October 10, at 8 p.m. It is the first in McCarter's series of films on youth in revolt.

Ravi Shankar will come with his sitar to open the Music at McCarter series on Monday, October 16.

And folk singer Judy Collins, who hasn't been to Princeton two seasons, will make up for lost time on Friday, October 20, at 8 p.m. in Alexander Hall. She'll be the first of the Fall Folk Specials.

"ECLIPSE" IS FIRST

On Cenacle List. Michaelangelo Antonioni's "Eclipse" opens The Cenacle film study series next Wednesday, October 11, at 8 p.m. in Frick Auditorium at Princeton University.

In Italian, with English subtitles, the film stars Monica Vitti and Alain Delon. It is the third of the trilogy that brought Antonioni internation al attention.

The Cenacle has scheduled major and rarely-shown films by such directors as Chaplin Fellini, Murnau, Renoir, Buster Keaton, Cocteau, Pudovkin, Godard, Rivette and W C. Fields. Independent New York filmmakers will come to Princeton to show and discuss their new works. Plans include discussion groups and lectures by visiting critics.

Taming of the Shrew (held over) is a hawdy, rollicking, fast-paced version of Shakespeare's comedy that will probably attract even those who don't go for Shakespeare. Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton have the lead roles. (Reviewed in last week's issue.)

PLAYHOUSE

Bonnie and Clyde (this Thurs. thru Tues.) is a recounting of the true-life story of Bonnie Parker and Clyde Barrow — two notorious criminals of the Thirties who robbed banks and killed some 18 persons in their brief careers. In essence, it amounts to a whitewash of two vicious people who left a trail of blood all over the Midwest before they were caught and slain.

The thesis of the script is that Bonnie and Clyde were just plain folks — a couple of misguided youngsters who took to crime out of a sense of adventure and because of the Great Depression.

They are shown as deeply in love and mutually disturbed over Clyde's sexual impotence. Clyde himself is pictured as a good guy who befriends sharecroppers and is strongly devoted to his brother. Bonnie has close family ties, too, and risks capture to visit her aging mother at a picnic. The

TO DANCE "COPPELIA"

Aparri Dancers The "Coppelia Variations" reproduced by Henry Danton in the original choreography by Saint-Leon will be danced by members of the Aparri School next Monday at the New School for Music.

The presentation is being given before members of the National Society of Arts and Letters, New Jersey Chapeter.

This original 19th-century version of the famous Variations, is rarely seen in the United States. Danton is associated with the Aparri School.

Aparri Dancers who will perform are Dorothy Pettit as Swanhilda; and Jocelyn Boulard, Martha Gottlieb, Paula Gottlieb, Shawna Kim, Sarah Myers and Linda Tracy as Swanhilda's Friends.

COLOR FILM SET

Jersey Wildlife In Theme The Pine Barrens and the Jersey Shore will be explored in the Audubon Wildlife Film, "A Place in the Sun," to be shown at 8 p.m. in Trenton Junior High School No. 3, West State Street and Parkside Avenue.

The film-lecture, narrated by naturalist-photographer Doris Boyd, will explore the animal and plant life of the two areas. The Audubon Wildlife Films deal with all aspects of nature, including wild animals in their natural environments, undersea life, plant life and magnificent scenery.

Tickets and further information about the series and other activities of the Trenton Naturalist Club may be obtained from Archie G. Lummis, president, 514 Mercer Road. Mrs. Florence Rockwell, treasurer, 32 Dogwood Lane, or Miss Catherine Cashman, membership chairman, 10 Bayard Lane.

A BOY GROWING UP: Welsh actor Emlyn Williams will read the poetry of Dylan Thomas Monday night in McCarter.

TAMING OF THE SHREW is held over this week at the Garden, Prince and RKO Trenl Theatres. Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton star.

NEW SHOP OPENS

"The Piccadilly." See that Union Jack on the wall? If you walk down Nassau from Moore Street you can't miss it. The red and white shouts at you from the inside wall of The Piccadilly, a new dress shop at 200 Nassau, in the sidewalk-building that used to be the home of Mario's hairdressing establishment.

The Union Jack and the name of the shop underscore its British accent. Step inside and enjoy the bright red-white-blue decor. Observe the unexpected harmony of a red woolen Scotch tartan throw with a quartet of bright Oriental rugs on the floor.

Then take a look at the clothes. Jaunty wool knit tams from Scotland match the authenticity of swinging kilts. Just name your clan! (Kilts are $14)

Finger the warm winter-weight of Scotch woolen skirts in herringbones or checks, done in those heather tones ($15 to 25).

Piccadilly loves that flip wrap-around skirt, the sassy short one that's a skirt in front and a culotte in back. It's a lovely blue tweed flecked with green. Another one, A-line in back, has a pair of sharp inverted pleats in the front.

Like leather? So does Piccadilly. Leather makes the slant patch pocket on one skirt, and provides the belt for another.

Like braid trim? So does Piccadilly. Braid, in black, wraps the edges of a grey Glen plaid A line wrap. The same skirt is solid navy with gold braid.

Now we turn to Piccadilly's dresses, and before we forget, the shop asks us to remind you that monogramming is a specialty.

You might like a navy monogram on the little wine basket-weave dress, so neatly banded with navy around its brief sleeves and simple neckloe. (This is a junior size and it comes in brown with pale shell beige trim, too.).

A suave dress in clay wool has long sleeves and an Empire top punctuated with minute dark brown leather buttons. The leather repeats in a narrow mid-strip along the back belt.

Need a jumper? Of course! Who has enough? Piccadilly has, that's certain.

Here's a $20 jumper with a bit of fullness from the yoke, and patch pockets against the Glen plaid wool. A spice berry ringbone would be great for autumn. For $22, Piccadilly has a jumper with suede yoke against the wool check of the body. For $16, you can have a heathery windowpane check in soft grey with subtle lines of wine and olive.

Bright prints are bright! One hopsacking is orange and pink, another is blue and green (paisley, what else?). You'll find a little neck ruffle around one, shoulder buttons on another.

At the other end of the palette is a black sleeveless cocktail dress with a satin rose at the point of its modest V neck. A sunburst of tucks radiates out from the rose. $24.

But if you're hostess rather than guest, you'll want to serve the Scotch in Piccadilly's

PEACOCKS ON YOUR WALL: Wallpapers printed to your order are a new excitement at Nassau Interiors. This one, by the American Indian artist Yeffe Kimble, is gold on bright coral, but you may have it in any colors you like. There are about 30 different designs, including toile papers, a serene arrangement of flecked feathers, a contemporary paisley and a dramatic rendering of leaves and blossoms in silver, black and white. All are custom-printed to your color order through Nassau Interiors.

OUT OF "UNDER MILKWOOD": Dylan Thomas evocation of a Welsh village will be given a reading this weekend by the young actors of Princeton University's Theatre Intime. Elissy Skilar and Meir Ribslow are members of the cast.

News Of The Theatres

bank robberies are treated as larks. The lawmen, by the way, are depicted as vain and vindictive types.

The factor that makes the protagonists appealing is the acting of Warren Beatty and Faye Donaway. He is boyish and winning, and she is fascinating both for her attractive looks and her mercurial moods.

Whatever one thinks of the slanted viewpoint of the script, there's no denying that it has been splendidly acted and brilliantly directed. Arthur Penn's direction gives the picaresque a lyrical quality. His action sequences — car chases and gun fights — are exciting, and his use of slow motion in the final slaying scene is tremendously effective.

"UNDER MILKWOOD"

Intime Reading. "A spectacle for the ear," Dylan Thomas' "Under Milkwood" will be presented in dramatic reading by Theatre Intime this Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Murray Theatre, on the University campus. Time: 8:30.

Theatre Intime is the University's undergraduate theatre, devoted this year to experimental productions of various authors. "Under Milkwood" will be given much as Dylan Thomas did it himself over the radio: a few actors will read the many parts, portraying the townspeople of Llareggub in Wales.

The play is similar to "Our Town," in the way it shows how life is lived in a small village. "Under Milkwood" takes its way from night to noon to night on one spring day.

Reservations for the Theatre Intime production may be made by calling the Murray Theatre box office at 452-3637 between 7 p.m. and 11 p.m. any evening.

DANCE SEASON PLANNED

Harkness, Joffrey. A series of four dance events will be presented in McCarter Theatre this season under the joint sponsorship of the theatre and the Princeton Ballet Society.

The series will open on Sunday, November 12, with a matinee appearance by the Princeton Regional Ballet. The company of 50 dancers will be accompanied by the Princeton Chamber Orchestra, under the direction of Nicholas Harsanyi.

On Sunday evening, February 4, the Joffrey Ballet will return to Princeton for its third appearance in McCarter. Two weeks later, on Sunday afternoon, February 18, the Royal Winnipeg Ballet of Canada will come again to McCarter. The Canadian company, with its 50 dancers and orchestra, opened the first McCarter dance series two seasons ago.

This season will close on Sunday, April 7, with the Princeton appearance of the Harkness Ballet. The Harkness dancers are scheduled to open in New York in November.

Season subscriptions for all four events are available at the McCarter box office. Single tickets for the Princeton Regional Ballet will go on sale Monday, October 23.

and the service - superb

You know how John complains about everything, well last night things were no different until we had dinner at the Cock and Bull. John's attitude completely changed when our first course was served and it got better throughout the dinner. After we left John kept saying "The food - magnificent and the service - superb."-oops, dropped a stitch.

Make a Tiger Lamp

Tiger chewing tobacco, that standby of old New England, used to come in big five-pound tins. The can was burnt orange, the lettering was gold, and guess what brooding, bewhiskered animal is staring out from the side?

Well, a couple of these five-pound cans are now at Country Antiques, 173 Nassau, and we'll race you to see who gets there first.

There's a round tin and an oblong tin, but both are about the same and both would make the best lamps in town for a Princeton man's den.

It's New To Us

Scotch tartan skirt, straight to the floor with a bright chain looping from its black belt. Comes in a solid black, too.

Slacks are here in wools and corduroys, and a wonderful pale khaki with a matching suede trimmed carcoat.

Nightshirts have bloomer bottoms, culotte bottoms or panty bottoms, and they all come in demure calicos or wild prints.

Sweaters are represented by a seed-stitch wool pullover with a three-inch ribbed neckband, in gold, vanilla, teal or olive and a $16 price tag. Shetland and lambswool combine in a $10 cardigan ($ for pullover).

Wha else from Piccadilly? Schapfrelli watches, wool striped scarves, little scalloped suede headbands, over-the-knee socks, a kelly green velvet hat with a brim THIS wide . . .

MY BEST BRASS BED

And Bentwood Tree. Old fashion is now new fashion, as you know, and nothing is newer than your old brass bed and your old bentwood clothes tree. Both — in fact, several brass beds — are now at Country Antiques, 173 Nassau.

One of Country Antiques' most treasured treasures is a charming little sewing rocker in tiger maple with gently curving cane back. It has been authenticated as a chair from the Gardiner family that owns Gardiner's Island, off the coast of Long Island.

A prim ladderback chair, spare and fine-boned, has a rush seat and the approximate birthdate of 1850. Our final chair is a lovely little child's high-chair with spindle back (easy to wipe off the milk) and a deep pine finish.

A set of six Aiken hunting prints from the 1830s would be a prize for a country hallway. The prints are mellow with time, and are framed identically in narrow black and gold.

Ever see Mother Goose in the first living-color production? This little book looks as though a child had done the pictures in watercolor, so uncertain is the register. The date is 1833, and there is a picture on each and every page. Not only pictures, but instructions on how to be expressive when reading aloud! Country Antiques has several children's books from the 1800s and pre-1800s, by the way.

To display on your collector's shelf, Country Antiques suggests a deep green South Jersey pinch bottle with pewter leaf trim and pewter grape stopper.

It might accompany a cranberry glass caster set with six lovely little red bottles nested in a standard of silver plate brushed with brass. And near by, you might place the Salopian cup and its deep saucer ($65) rare and darkly lovely with its gree pine branches in the Chinese manner.

Ironstone devotees will be interested in Country Antiques' grey-purple set, with giant eight-sided sugar, creamer, the handless cups (handless by design, not by accident) and matching compote.

The Royal Doulton bowl-pitcher set would be a marvelous autumn punchbowl, considering its sand-colored finish

SHANKAR TO COME TWICE

Booked for Second Recital. When an artist is SRO before he even comes to town, it's time to talk about another appearance. McCarter Theatre has therefore announced that Ravi Shanker, the genius of the sitar, will play on Saturday, October 21 at 8:30 in Alexander Hall.

Shankar's first recital, on October 16, has been sold out. Tickets for the October 21 appearance are now on sale at the McCarter box office.

The Indian musician is a composer as well as performer, and he drew upon the ancient Indian ragas for his score to the Jonathan Miller BBC production of "Alice in Wonderland." His sitar pupils have included Yehudi Menuhin and George Harrison of the Beatles.

LISTEN TO JAZZ

By Newport All-Stars. A benefit concert by some of the top musicians in the jazz field will be given Friday, October 20, at 11:15 p.m. at the Princeton Playhouse.

Sponsored by the Princeton Art Association, the concert will cover a wide range of jazz from the traditional to the most contemporary, and will feature both solo and ensemble playing by the Newport Jazz All Stars on piano, saxophone, clarinet, bass, trompet and drums.

Clarinetist Pee Wee Russell has been prominent with jazz bands in nightclubs and on records since the 1920's. He has played with Eddie Condon, George Wein and toured extensively both here and abroad. He likes to play both Dixieland and the more experimental jazz forms in a basic improvisational style.

The mainstay of the Count Basie band for 15 years, Buck Clayton is both a trumpeter and composer. He has played with the Joe Buskin quartet, freelanced in New York, and played on several foreign tours. His songs as well as his playing can be heard in the Nat Pierce album for RCA.

A pioneer on the jazz saxophone, Bod Freeman has been a frequent winner of Down beat and Metronone Polls for tenor saxophone. During the last 40 years he has recorded for every major company and appeared with many important jazz bands including those of Tommy Dorsey and Benny Goodman.

One of the great drummers to rise to prominence in the mid 1930's, Don Lamond has become one of the most adaptable percussion men in the business. Associated with many big bands including Boyd Raeburn, Sonny Dunham and Woody Herman, he has spent most of his time in television for the past 15 years.

Jack Lesberg was originally a classic bass player with the New York Symphony Orchestra under Leonard Bernstein, before starting a jazz career at Eddie Condon's. He has toured with the orchestras of Louis Armstrong, Earl Hines and Jack Teagarden.

Tickets are available at Gallery 100, the Princeton University Store and the PAA office, 14 Nassau Street.

MUSIC CLUB TO PLAY

At Coming Meeting. The Music Club of Princeton has set Wednesday, October 11, as the date for its next meeting. Mrs. Wallace Hayes, president, will open the meeting at 8:30 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Armstrong, 12 Station Road, Cranbury.

After a short business meeting, a program of Brahms, B. Marcello, Faure, D. Scarlatti and Chopin will be presented. Performing will be Marta Pacsu, Yvonne Macdonald, Lois Laverty, Leon DuBois, Margaret Lambert and Louise Cheadle.

MUSICIANS TO PLAY

At Recorder Meeting. The Princeton Chapter of the American Recorder Society has set its first meeting of the fall season for Tuesday. The meeting begins at 8 in the All Saints Chapel on Van Dyke Road.

Anybody wishing to join the Chapter is encouraged to attend, bringing instruments and stands if possible. Mrs. Jennifer Lehmann will speak at the meeting. Inquiries should be directed to Mrs. Seymour Roth, 799-0277

Like to Sing? Join Musical Amateurs

You don't have to audition, you don't have to put in rehearsal time, you can skip the high notes if they're out of your reach.

The Princeton Society of Musical Amateurs is a community group gathered for the purpose of making music together. Commuters, housewives, high school students, professors, clerks, undergraduates meet once a month to read the great choral works with an orchestra and vocal soloists.

The first meeting of the current season will be Sunday, October 15 at 5 p.m. at the Unitarian Church, Cherry Hill Road off Route 206. J. Merrill Knapp, of the music department at Princeton university, will conduct the Mozart Requiem.

Soloists will be Sylvia Jones, soprano; Karen Lichti, alto; Goff Owen Jr., tenor and Bruce Fifer, bass. Anyone who wishes to sing solo parts for other Amateur programs should call Mrs. Barbara Lewis, 921-7356. Instrumentalists who would like to play in the orchestra should call Robert Lohman, 921-6757.

Other works to be sung this year will be Stravinsky's "Symphony of Psalms" (November 12), Bach's Magnificat and the Cantata No. 110 (December 3); Mendelssohn's "Elijah" (January 21); Vaughan-Williams' Mass in G minor (February 18); Honegger's "King David" (March 17), a program of works by Schuetz (April 21) and Beethoven's Missa Solemnis (May 19).

Conductors, besides Professor Knapp, will be Mrs. Lewis, formerly the assistant director of the Radcliffe Choral Society; Walter Nollner, conductor of the Princeton University Glee Club; Joseph Kovacs, of the Rutgers music department and William Trego, conductor of the Princeton High School choirs.

and the row of Tudor-style houses painted around the bowl's rim. The pitcher is Falstaffian in size, and is decorated with a town crier — crying, we presume. The legend is "Watchman what of the night?" Looks also like a bowl and pitcher for a country bedroom.

Remember all those old clothes we wrote about some time ago? Country Antiques has been rummaging in the trunk again, and here are some more: a floor-length red cape, glittering with gold embroidery and magnificence. And a buttery-yellow velvet ball gown lined with lavender. Where's my carriage?

SEW SOME MORE

Raw Silk, to Start. Thought raw silk was always that tawny tan? Look at Fabric Find's find: 50-inch-wide raw silk in bright cherry red, bright turquoise green, bright royal blue, weighty and wonderful to sew.

Hand-loomed silks from India are similar, but more fluid and softer in texture. The gold is a bright gold, the royal and the emerald are bright, but glowing and wonderful together.

Fabric Find makes a point of designer remnants from New York, and Mrs. Van Sitters buys only three yards of each, thereby assuring you of a one-of-a-kind coat or dress.

At the moment, you'll find at Fabric Find a soft, very thick and loopy wool for coat or skirt or cape. It's a mixture of greens in many shades and many thicknesses of thread. Here and there is a shot of royal purple, and if you look at the whole from a distance, you'll see a subtle outline of squares.

One of the things we always like about Fabric Find is the collection of fashion photographs that give you ideas about what to make out of what. The little theatre suit, for example, is shown with the collection of silk-and-worsted, in silvery grey or toast or pale blue or black.

And the pants suit picture, right there next to the thick-and-thin wale corduroys. There's a bark-textured corduroy, too, and standard wide wales. Like burgundy? Spice?

For the cotton velveteen in "Jungle skin," by the way, is a hybrid of leopard, tiger, jaguar and maybe even cheetah, for all we know. Quite a mix.

Printed velveteen has pink and purple stripes in this width and that, or a regal stained-glass arrangement of jewel colors.

Suede cloth comes in spice, avocado green, a color they call "gourd" and even violet, to make a fall mini-skirt or a jacket or a trench coat.

And speaking of mini-skirts, why not make a few out of salty dog scrub denim? It has the soft finish you get from denim you've worn and washed for years — you know? Comes in oyster, faded blue, dark red, and a deep olive to harmonize with the deep olive and white stripe. You could even make a jacket, if you're better at tailoring than we are.

Speaking of tailoring — that "Unique" zipper now comes with a new foot which fits all sewing machines, slant or straight.

TOWN TOPICS reaches every home and place of business served by the Princeton post office. By their own figures, no other Princeton newspaper does half as well

FOLINSBEE ON VIEW

At Gallery 100. From Thursday to October 26, Gallery 100 will show landscapes and marines by John Folinsbee of New Hope, Pa.

After studying at the Art Student's League in New York City with Frank Dumond and Jonas Lie, John Folinsbee came to New Hope in 1929 to join the Artists' Colony with Lathrop, Garber, Redfield and others. Of that original group he remains one of the few senior members and one whose long and distinguished career has been spent on the banks of the Delaware.

As a member of the National Academy of Design, the Century Association and the Institute of Arts and Letters, he has been oriented toward New York and through these institutions and New Hope, he has contributed much as an active portrait and landscape painter, juror and teacher, with interest in and encouragement for younger artists.

During the 20's he was mainly influenced by the Impressionists and his Delaware Valley and French paintings were filled with color and scintillating light. As time went on his Bucks County hills and shad fishermen subjects were broader in technique; snow scenes and moonlights were a forte.

Moonlights are too often sentimental and phony. It can be romantic all right, but has concentration on design and its movement become accentuated in a dramaic way as in "Maine Moonlight" which received the Century Club Medal of Honor in 1951.

Maine Seaseapes. From summers in Maine, a lot of his work in the 30's and 40's were seascapes painted from the shore. In 1952 his "Ellingwood Rock" won the Palmer Marine Prize at the National Academy at which point he bought a lobster-boat with the prize money, determined to become a real marine painter and go to sea. At the age of 60 he learned all about "Redlight Return."

The more he studied water and its movement, the less detail and bright color, the more mood and feeling went into his painting. In "The Wave," the surge of the sea is almost the whole canvas surface and one feels like a piece of flotsam or jetsam rolled along by the wave. In "Lobsterman's Return" one can feel almost too much motion.

His water moves, sometimes swiftly around Heligate's spindle, a favorite subject, pounding a reef with cormorants or seining with the tide over the mud flats. The coastal waters of his Maine paintings are very real as a working background for those who live on and with the sea.

From this show at Gallery 100, it is clear that strong design, solid form and energetic paint quality have always been characteristic of his work even as his ideas and technique have broadened. He puts all of himself, mentally and physically into each painting and that vitality carries its point.

EXHIBITION OPENS

At McCarter Theatre. The first of the exhibitions sponsored by the Princeton Art Association at McCarter Theatre has included works by past and present PAA faculty. Appropriate to the Fall season is the riot of color on the walls.

Doubtless this effect is partially due to the excellent new lighting system, the refurbished background panels and the tireless efforts of the hanging committee and their helpers on high ladders. The show looks well.

Many styles are represented; gay still lifes by Dagmar Tribble and Vera McKinley, Ann Denzer's "how does your garden grow?" rag tapestries, fine drawings with undertones by David Chapin, Maine in the Fall by Peter Cook and a series of al fresco compositions with red, green and purple nudes of Prestopino, Patricia Kern's "Purple Cow and Me." The sand castings by Margaret Kennard Johnson, Peter Chapin's "Garden" and the black and white graphics of R. E. Muetler and Stefan Martin hold the show together.

The shows can be seen daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and entire acte the McCarter shows tured. The Phillips Mill Art Exhibition in New Hope has been an annual event for as many years as we can remember.

Art In Princeton

It has had its ups and downs but this year it seems particularly worth the trip over the hills. The main gallery looks very well with a few paintings and pieces of sculpture which are quite distinguished.

One of the most dominating is "Conemara Cottage" by Charles Coiner which rightfully received the First Patron's Prize for paintings. It is a handsome canvas in his best strong, deep and simple style. Louis Bosa's paintings are delightful in color and wry humor. They remind us of the hard life and times of Guareschi's "Don Camillo." Bosa's "Three Graces" was a prize winner here.

Another prize was awarded an ably handled watercolor by Raniulph Bye, "Hudson Over look." For Graphics, the First Patron's Prize went to Mary E. Johnston of Belle Meade, N. J. for "Owls," charateristically in her style, well designed and executed. First Prize in Sculpture was won by Barbara Walker for a figure composition in wire called "Dance."

Among other entries of interest were Pasashvily's wonderful sculpted animals, ("Bear Cub with Flowers," in particular), William Smith's Burmese drawings, John Folinsbee's "Saddle Reef," Peter Cook's "Penobscot," Clarence Carter's subjects (all eyes this year, and Harry Leith Ross' "Urban Project."

The show is open to the public daily from 1 to 5 p.m. and on Sunday from 2 to 6 p.m.

EXHIBITION SET

At Forge Gallery. An exhibition of oils and watercolors by two New York artists, Ernest Little and M. Cyril Kennett, will be featured at The Forge Gallery in Millstone during October.

Mr. Little, a resident of West Windsor Township, is a graduate of the Ontario College of Art, Toronto, Canada and a member of the Princeton Art Association. He has instructed classes in watercolors for many years.

The exhibition will feature landscapes and seascapes with special emphasis on techniques. A reception will be held at the gallery, Sunday from 2 to 5.

OFFER MADE TO CLUBS

By University Trustees. Princeton University has offered to buy any upperclass eating club which is willing to turn over its functions to the University, "as a way to develop a better climate of undergraduate life, equally for underclassmen and upperclassmen. The offer was contained in a statement from the Trustees' special committee on clubs released Tuesday.

Formed last January, the committee continually reviews aspects of undergraduate social life. Its statement was distributed to individuals and organizations most concerned with the 15 privately controlled upperclass clubs, the form of "some initial considerations."

In its report the committee stated it wished to make it clear that "the long-range objective of the Board of Trustees and the University Administration is to achieve the best possible conditions for a beneficial and productive social life for undergraduates. Recent decades have brought about an excessive dominance of the club system, wherein most undergraduates feel a compulsion to seek membership in private clubs because social and dining facilities do not seem equally desirable."

According to the statement, if three or more clubs decide to sell, the University would then operate them as a social dining facility indefinitely. Alumni members would still enjoy privileges comparable to those they have had in the past.

The statement went on to say that "no student should feel compelled to enter 'bicker' because of the fear that failure to be elected to a club would rule out the opportunity of a pleasant social life at Princeton."

The committee also felt that it would be helpful to the bicker system if a wider range of undergraduate views were to participate in setting policies, and recommended including representatives from the Undergraduate Assembly and more members of the sophomore class.

The statement concluded that "the University does not seek to abolish the club system, but must face up to the need of more varied arrangements to relieve the disproportionate role which the clubs currently have in the social life of Princeton undergraduates."

The nine-member special committee is chaired by S. Barksdale Penick Jr. and includes R. Manning Brown, Dean John B. Coburn, Arthur Howell, Donald B. Knipp, Arthur S. Lane, and Franklin T. McClintock. President Robert F. Goheen and William D. Lippincott, dean of students, are also members.

TOURS ARE OFFERED

Of Engineering Quadrangle. Public tours of Princeton University's Engineering Quadrangle will be offered on Saturday mornings before home football games this fall, between 10 and 11.

Sponsored by the Engineering Council, a group of undergraduates in the School of Engineering, the 45-minute tours will leave from the main lobby of the Quadrangle (corner of Olden Avenue and William Street). The tours are designed to give alumni, Princeton residents and candidates for admission a non-technical acquaintance with the research being carried on in the various departments.

Completed in 1962, the Quadrangle consists of five buildings housing 25 classrooms, 125 laboratories, 125 offices, the Engineering Library and the main installation of the Computer Center.

Calling All Home Makers
By Walter L. Harris

THERE IS A DIFFERENCE BETWEEN "DECORATING" AND "FURNISHING"

HARRIS

Decorating is that special touch which turns a "house" into a "charming home."

Decorating is a creative and imaginative art. It is the ability to transform furniture and other inanimate objects into a related pleasant pattern.

In the old days you would simply buy a living room, dining room and bedroom suite and your home would be furnished.

Today, people just don't buy "sets" of furniture if they really want to decorate.

Colors, fabrics, textures, arrangements, walls, floors, ceilings, windows, lighting, and accessories all have to be taken into consideration so that the entire picture will have coherence, utility and beauty.

And, of course, with it all, your home should reflect your likes and your personality.

It's really not difficult to turn your "house" into a "charming home," and have a home that is not just "furnished," but one that is smartly "decorated."

We can give you a fine selection of furniture from which you can choose, and we offer you free decorating help and ideas without cost or obligation. We invite you to come in.

THE GARDEN-MAKER

To Japan, With Love. The love affair between Polly Fairman and Japan goes back 17 years to the house she built on Mt. Lucas Road in the same dark brown and white as Japanese temples with the same overhang you find on temple roofs. "And Japan wasn't even in my thoughts when I built my house," she says in wonder.

The tall blonde landscape artist who built her own beautiful gardens around that beautiful temple house in the Japanese tradition, has finally been to Japan.

In fact, she lived there for four months, working in a Japanese landscape firm, studying exquisite private gardens — and returning "home" each evening to a Zen temple near Kyoto.

Here in Princeton, Mrs. Fairman is both a landscape artist in the Japanese tradition, and a specialist in bonsai, the art of dwarfing plants. She went to Japan to study bonsai as a member of the Greater New York Bonsai Society, but she stayed to deepen and widen her knowledge of landscaping.

Simplicity. "A very important thing to tell Americans about Japanese gardens, is that the best ones are natural," and she looks out the wide window wall of her home into the branches of the giant pine and across the lawn to the quiet stream that flows through her woods.

"So many people have seen only contrived Japanese gardens, and somehow they think 'Japanese' means terribly artificial, but this just isn't so."

In her months in Japan, Mrs. Fairman had entree to private gardens regarded by connoisseurs as the finest of their kind. She also visited many of the exquisite restaurant gardens in the environs of Kyoto, and of course, she worked in a nursery.

"This was the largest nursery in Kyoto," she explains, "absolutely huge! The owner, Mr. Sano — we called him 'Sano San' — dealt in lanterns, trees, rocks, everything you would need to build a garden. He gave me office space, two laborers and a place — right on a busy road! — to make a garden."

Students of the Japanese garden will be amused to learn that "Sano San" gave Mrs. Fairman 15 stones to work with, the same number as the famous stone garden at Ryoanji.

"It was quite a challenge — he just turned me loose!" she laughs.

Mrs. Fairman was curious about the ways a big Japanese nursery operates. Stones, of course, are very important in a Japanese garden, and Mrs. Fairman has difficulty, here in New Jersey, finding the right stones and even more important, getting them moved into the garden she is working on at the moment.

"The Japanese laborers have these tripods — surely the kind of thing that's been used for thousands of years! There's a pulley in the middle and a chain that goes around the rock, and moving the stones is infinitely easier than anything we do here."

She also observed that the rock itself was carefully protected from the chain by matting. "In this country, you'll find a perfectly wonderful rock all scarred, and maybe even chipped so that you don't want to use it, but in Japan, they treat stones like jewels."

Dressed in her green "Princeton" gardening outfit with warm turtle-neck sweater (she was in Japan during the late, cold spring), she and her two laborers built her garden. "They wanted me to wear Japanese clothing, and all that, but I refused — it would have been so fake!"

Temple Gardens. And then, there were the five gardens around the Zen temple in which she lived. "They gave me complete freedom to work in these gardens — meaning, they had trouble getting help and they were grateful for whatever I could do!"

A LADY FROM JAPAN: Tall, blonde Polly Fairman had high visibility in Japan during her visit there this summer. The Princeton bonsai specialist and Japanese garden expert, studied her art in the gardens of Japan. She is shown in her own Mt. Lucas Road garden with one of the typical bamboo gates (she made it herself) used in Japanese garden.

She pruned, hauled away dead wood, picked up toppled statuary in the temple cemetery and dickered with Japanese suppliers for gravel.

Within the temple, she lived in a large, cold room ("I would have perished without my electric blanket!") sleeping on three "futon," or quilts, instead of the usual single one used by the hardy Japanese, and pitting her wits against the hot-water shower in the western style bathroom.

A Friend from Home. Mrs. Fairman knows no Japanese. She acquired an interpreter through a channel of co-incidence that led straight back to Princeton.

In the mid '50s Mrs. Fairman had offered Princeton hospitality to a visiting Japanese physicist named Kobayashi who had a young daughter. For a time, after the Kobayashis returned home, the families maintained contact, but then the years passed.

Last spring, the Kobauashi daughter came to buy some plants at the Kyoto nursery where Mrs. Fairman was starting her job. The young girl recognized her friend from long ago in Princeton and offered to be Mrs. Fairman's interpreter.

Mostly, Japanese who met Mrs. Fairman wanted to practice English. Youngsters would gather around her on streets or in trains, guessing her nationality from her blonde hair and asking, "May we practice English?"

Mrs. Fairman also found, to her amusement, that she often knew more about Japanese gardens than the Japanese — especially young Japanese. "We don't understand gardens," they would tell her, practicing their English.

And to give them a little practice in understanding spoken English, Mrs. Fairman would explain to them — Japanese gardens.

STAR-GAZERS TO MEET

On Radio Astronomy. Tuesday, October 10, is the date for the next public meeting of the Amateur Astronomers' Association of Princeton. Addressing the affair, scheduled for 8 in the Princeton YMCA, will be Dr. A. A. Penzias, a member of the technical staff of the Bell Telephone Laboratories.

Dr. Penzias' topic will be "Radio Astronomy." He will describe measurements of radiation from outside the earth's atmosphere and what these measurements reveal about such phenomenon as quasars and galactic hydrogen clouds.

Dr. Penzias is a lecturer in the Department of Astrophysical Sciences at Princeton University. He has been associated with Bell Laboratories since 1961.

LECTURES SET

For Adult School. The Lecture Series of the Princeton Adult School will hear a discussion of "Buddhism and Southeast Asian Society." Dr. Thomas Kirsch, an anthropologist at Princeton University, will deliver the lecture at 8 this Thursday in the Princeton High School Auditorium. Admission will be $1.

The following Thursday will feature an analysis of "the Golden Age of Burma: the 5,000 Pagodas of Pagan." Lecturer will be Dr. Jane Gaston Mahler, art historian at Columbia University.

The American Character Series of lectures — set for 9 on the same nights as the Asian series — will continue this Thursday with a discussion of anthropology. Dr. Ashley Montagu will speak.

Thomas Sloan of Princeton University's Department of Art and Archeology will give the lecture on October 12. His topic will be "Art and Architecture."

BOOK FAIR COMING

To Princeton Day School. October 9 through October 13 is the time to buy books at the Princeton Day School Book Fair. The wide selection of books will be open to browsers from 10 to 4 each day.

Books on sale will range from Peanuts to Picasso with both hard-cover and paperback books available for children or adults.

Money raised from the sale will benefit the school library. Last year's sale, for example, permitted the librarian to acquire over $1,000 worth of books.

WOMEN TO MEET

For Dessert and Bridge. The Women's Republican Club has set Thursday, October 5, as date for its annual Dessert-Bridge Party. The affair will be in the home of Mrs. Walker W. Stevenson Jr. of 129 Hodge Road, beginning at 1.

Why I Plan to Vote

REPUBLICAN

By Richard K. Paynter III

I believe William L. Wilson and Harry Volwieder have amply proved their qualifications to continue as members of the Princeton Township Committee. I think they deserve our votes and our gratitude for the many services they have performed for Princeton.

I think Bill Wilson is as much a part of Princeton as Township Hall itself. He has helped develop our school system as President of the former Township School Board. He was a prime mover in building our Joint Public Library. He has shown his leadership in his church, in charitable organizations, in dozens of ways and through many years.

Above all, throughout his two terms as a member of Township Committee, including one year as Mayor, Mr. Wilson has proved his ability to help provide Princeton Township with progressive, responsible, open government. He is an extraordinary citizen.

Harry Volwieder has a similar history of devoted service to our town. Many a parent knows of him through his years as a leader in the Boy Scouts. He has given countless hours as a member of the Township Planning Board.

As chairman of the Joint Recreation Commission he has given countless hours as a member of the Township Planning Board.

As Chairman of the Joint Recreation Commission he has more recently been a key factor in the hugely successful debut of the Community Park complex. Since his appointment to Township Committee, Mr. Volwieder has become one of the most effective members of that body.

I think Mr. Wilson and Mr. Volwieder, along with their fellow committee members, have given us the kind of government every community wants and few achieve. They have guided the Township through an orderly development in recent years, yet managed to keep our local tax rate in hand.

They have shown their progressiveness and adaptability in the many programs the Township now pursues with our neighbors in the Borough, such as Community Park. They are attentive to all citizens, eager to hear all views.

In voting for these fine Republicans I have the confidence that the future of Princeton I love is in capable hands. I know I can depend on them to move our Township ahead, to change it as it must be changed, but always with respect and understanding for the charming character of Princeton as it is.

I am delighted to have the opportunity to vote for William L. Wilson and Harry Volwieder.

DEMOCRATIC

By William W. Marvel

I plan to vote for Monty Brown for Township Committee this year. I will do so for many of the same reasons which prompted me to stand for this office a decade ago, and for what I learned about our community and the Township Committee during the three years that I served as a member of that group.

In many ways the most compelling reason for Township residents to vote for Monty Brown is so taken for granted that it is rarely examined. Each year Township Democrats, through their candidates and their campaigns, provide a means for re-examining and evaluating the work of the Township Committee for illuminating that which has not been accomplished, for challenging that which has been poorly accomplished, and for gaining perspective on that which has been accomplished well.

This is "report card" time for the Township. The endless reels of self-congratulations which the Republicans spin out at this season are scarcely warranted — either by the grades which they receive from the Democrats or the state of the community itself.

Furthermore the Republican Party is not representative of the people of the Township. Usually, only about 200 votes make the margin between the Democrats and the opportunity to show the community the kind of vitality and imagination that can be added to the Township Committee by even one Democrat breaking into the tight little circle of Republican control. In the Township, every vote counts!

Let me turn from principle to practice, and draw on my experience as a member of the Township Committee to point out first, the effect that any qualified Democrat would have on the activities of the Committee, and second, why I think that the election of this particular Democrat—Monty Brown—would be beneficial to the community.

One-party control of Princeton Township has inevitably given Township government a strong flavor of paternalism. The Committee does what it thinks is good for the rest of us, a perspective that has led to far more executive sessions than necessary, with too many issues really being decided in closed meetings.

I have noted with some dismay that this preference for executive sessions — so very pronounced ten years ago but largely corrected when there was two-party government—is now becoming Township Hall's way of life again. If I had any success as a Democratic member of the Township Committee, it was in insisting that the people's business be conducted in the presence of the people. All of us, whether Republicans, Democrats, or independent voters would benefit enormously from a larger proportion of Township Committee deliberations being held in the critical light of open sessions.

Montague Brown brings to the affairs of the Township a rich background of community service experience, especially in bringing together business, government, and voluntary agencies to work cooperatively in solving manpower and educational problems both in and out of the health care field.

As Director of the Hospital Research and Educational Trust of New Jersey, Monty's daily work consists of reconciling divergent, State, and national interests in order to achieve solutions to hospital manpower problems, establish criteria for nursing homes, plan and implement educational programs for young people interested in health care and related fields.

COST COULD RUN HIGH

In Strike Benefits Law. The controversial strike benefits law advertised as costing "less than $1 million a year", could easily scoop more than half a million a week out of the unemployment compensation fund, according to a recent study.

The law, which was passed by the New Jersey Legislature last spring, clearing the Assembly by only a single vote, grants unemployed benefits to strikers after the sixth week of a strike. It is scheduled to go into effect January 1.

New Jerseyans to Protect Unempolyment Benefits (PUB), a 12,000 member organization fighting to repeal the law, reports that at least 11,260 workers in the state are now on strike, including 7,900 from Ford Motor Company. The Ford strike will enter its seventh week October 16; the five other strikes in the PUB study are over six weeks old.

"Thus, right now," the study points out," the law would cost $208,000 a week, based on the figure of $62 a week per worker in strike benefits from the unemployment fund. This excludes the Ford strike which would add about $500,000 more a week beginning October 16. All persons employed in the state — both union and non-union — pay taxes each week into the fund.

PUB's study inclides current strikes at U. S. Metals Refining Company in Carteret, 10 weeks old; American Smelting and Refining Co. in Perth Amboy, ten weeks old; Shell Oil Co. in Sewaren, 14 weeks old; South Jersey Gas in Glassboro, eight weeks old, and the Roofing Contractors Assn. in North Jersey, 16 weeks old.

There is a one-week waiting period in the law, but it is retroactive if the strike lasts ten weeks. Therefore, as an example, 100 employees in the tenth week of a strike would have received $6,200 for four weeks or a total of 24,800.

"A prominent point to be made is that the strike benefits law will encourage longer strikes, therefore these figures are probably a very conservative estimate of what it would be like if we were in 1968 and the law were in effect," the study concluded.

perspective that sees community problems in a wider context. Almost none of the issues facing the Township is restricted to our boundaries: our shopping center has an absentee landlord, our post office and hospital are regional rather than local institutions, our housing needs require state and federal support and approval, the very character of our community would be affected by the outcome of an unfortunate situation that has developed between Princeton and Lawrenceville over the plans of a major pharmaceutical company to locate a large part of its enterprise a few miles from Nassau Hall.

In his present occupation, in his work with the National Council of Churches, in his background in industrial relations and economics which he has utilized in lecturing at universities both in this country and in England, Monty Brown has amply demonstrated his capabilities as planner, administrator, organizer, and problem solver in the very areas which are now demanding the consideration of our local government.

I urge you to take this attractive opportunity to give Princeton Township another healthy period of two-party government. Join me in voting for Montague Brown on November 7.

BOMBING HALT WORTH THE RISK: Graduate student Ralph Flores (right) believes the U.S. should halt its bombing of North Vietnam without imposing any conditions, saying "I think it's worth the risk." Robert Sigel, in agreeing the bombs should stop falling, says the best thing that could happen over there would be for the Vietcong to win. (Staff Photo)

Question of the Week

Question: There is mounting pressure from all sides for the United States to stop its bombing of North Vietnam — without any strings attached. Should we?

Where asked: Around town.

Robert Sigel, 407-A Dever eux Avenue, graduate student, comparative literature: Yes, we should stop. I want the U.S. to withdraw. I believe the Vietcong should win the war. I feel they are the ones who are representative of the people and have the real interests of the people at heart. I believe it would be the best thing that could happen to Vietnam if the Vietcong won control.

Ralph Flores, 39 Park Place, graduate student, comparative literature: Yes, I think we should try it. I think it is worth the risk.

S. S. Spivak, Far Hills, research chief, Princeton University: No. This is a procedure our Joint Chiefs of Staff and our military people have decided is the most effective. We cannot exercise a military judgment. We're not equipped to. And it we want to withdraw from Vietnam altogether, that's a different question that involves our allies as well.

Miss Martha Wood, 33 Maple Street, domestic worker: Oh, I wish they would stop. There's just too many people in Princeton I know involved in the war. I'd love to see them home again and the world at peace. I feel bad everytime I hear the news. I think that stopping the bombing might help bring peace, but it's how the people on the other end feel that counts.

Robert Pate, Lawrenceville, self-employed: I don't think so. All I know is what I read. Everytime we have stopped before, the enemy is allowed them to build up their forces.

William McCutcheon, Philadelphia, office manager: No. I think we're only sticking our necks out for more trouble. We stopped three times before and nothing happened. What we're asking is simply for them to talk with us while we stop, and dammit, they won't even answer yes or no. For us to do it without any strong concessions on their part doesn't make any sense. I think we're talking to irresponsible people. Personally, I think it's a political thing. Not from our side but their's. They're trying to see how long they can keep us in this thing.

Bill Hardy, Mount Lucas Road, Princeton University junior: It seems to me there is more evidence of mounting pressure in one place and another but I don't know if this is representative of the majority of the American people. There is a lot of feeling for us to get out of Vietnam but I don't know if just stopping the bombing is the right way to do it. Seems the big problem is no one knows what to suggest. Whatever, it has to work both ways; there has to be concessions on both sides. We stopped the bombing once before. It didn't work. Nothing happened except the ground fighting got worse. Like Secretary Rusk said: he hasn't seen anyone from North Vietnam willing to talk about ending the war.

Mrs. Patricia Bonnett, Hamilton Square, Manager, Leisure League Travel, Route 1: No. I think this is a matter of I'll scratch your back if you'll scratch mine. Why should we stop if they aren't going to make any concessions? It ought to be reciprocal on both sides.

Harry Cohen, East Brunswick, art director Princeton advertising firm: Yes, by all means we should. Essentially, it's a civil war in South Vietnam and by bombing the North we are not accomplishing anything because the Vietcong is doing the bulk of the fighting in the south. If we were to cut off North Vietnam and let it drift out to sea, the war would go on as vigorously as ever. Bombing is a waste of time, money and human life — and that goes for the war as a whole.

Miss E. A. Morioo, Highland Park, Princeton secretary: No. I would like to see the bombings go on because, one, we have too many men involved already. Two, we have an obligation to continue in Vietnam, and three, I would like to see it end. We should mount one final push, like we did in Normandy, and get it over with. Attack them from land, sea and air with everything we've got. Our hands have been tied for too long for this reason or that and all during this time we're losing our men. If we stop now, we'll give up everything we've fought for so far. We should bring them to their CUTE AT SIX . . . but not at sixteen . . . or sixty . . . nor in between!

It's natural to lose our first teeth. It is a regular part of growing up. Permanent teeth must have somewhere to grow.

At sixteen or older we shouldn't lose any, for teeth were meant to last a lifetime. With proper care, they can.

Here's How . . .

1. Clean teeth properly after eating . . . brush up on the bottom and down on the uppers . . . outside and inside as well.

2. Cut down on sweets, particularly between meals. A chief cause of tooth decay is the acid formed by fermentation of sugar in the mouth.

3. Have regular dental checkups. Important at ALL AGES. Thorough examinations will disclose any decay, infection, or other problems.

Sorry so they ask us to stop. We shouldn't be the ones to go to them. I think that's ridiculous.

Frank O'Gorman, Yardley, Pa., electrical engineer: No. I don't think we should. I feel the bombing does serve a good purpose. It hinders the enemy's transportation of equipment and personnel to the south. I feel a cessation of the bombing would indicate a weakening of our determination to succeed in Vietnam.

Demo-Day is coming Friday 13th...

Since it's never in, it's never out.

Each year the new cars come rolling out with the latest frills.

Wow.

And each year the old Volkswagen rolls out looking just the same.

Ho hum.

But when the year goes by, new fads soon outdate the old fads. And the hottest-looking car last year is just that: the hottest-looking car last year.

But a VW is still just a VW. Not looking up-to-date, but not looking out-of-date either. (So you'll never have a Has-Been on your hands when you want to sell it.)

Instead of wasting time making the VW look better, we spend our time making it work better.

And this year there are dozens of ways it works better. (That makes over 2200 in all since it first started working period.)

In the end, the choice is yours: pay a big price for a year of glory.

Or a small price for a VW.

COLUMBIA A SURPRISE

Lions May Win Saturday. For the first time in six years — and only the second since it lost defeated Princeton in 1945 — Columbia's football team will enter its game with the Tigers no worse than an even bet to win. The contest is set for Baker Field on Saturday at 1:30, opening the Ivy League season for both teams.

Not since 1961, when Princeton rallied for a 30-to-20 victory, the only setback suffered by the Lions on their way to an Ivy title tie with Harvard, has the oft-beaten Light Blue poised the threat it does this season. Its hopes for success this weekend hinge on the fact that it will be leading with its strength — a balanced, veteran offense — against an inexperienced defensive Tiger unit which showed how much it still has to learn during the last-minute triumph over Rutgers.

QUICK LOOK AT COLUMBIA

OFFENSE: Best balanced Lions have had since finishing in first place Ivy tie in '61.

DEFENSE: Line has experience and ability; secondary is the question mark.

CHIEF ASSET: Veteran backfield directed by 215-lb quarterback Marty Domres, a major threat on roll outs and on passing.

CHIEF PROBLEM: Inability to match Princeton depth and in coping with single wing.

TYPE OF OFFENSE: Wing T, flanking either halfback to either side.

Columbia's attack is built around junior Marty Domres, little used in the 14-12 loss the Lions were dealt last October, but so much of a comer that a fortnight later he set an Ivy passing record against Yale with 326 yards to his credit. In the 17-14 upset Coach Buff Donelli's team achieved last week against Colgate Domres had quite a day: 14 of 24 aerials completed for 142 yards, 30 carries for 113 yards and two touchdowns.

Fascinatingly, the Light Blue put 81 plays in motion during the afternoon and just three players (Domres, halfback Jim O'Connor, fullback and Mike Busa) were responsible for the entire show. Only three offensive backs were used, and they either blocked or went downfield as pass receiver.

Few Seniors on Team. Like Princeton, Columbia's squad is composed principally of juniors and sophomores, with only 14 seniors among its personnel. The starting backfield is an all-junior quartet; what seniors there are are principally on the two lines.

It is, accordingly, the defensive secondary's inexperience with the Princeton single wing that will tell much of the story and determine whether the Tigers can prevail in a contest that seems likely to produce two or three touchdowns by each side. Saturday's victory was the first in an opening contest for the Lions in three years and the manner in which it was achieved over a well-regarded opponent has given them reason to believe they have the ability to end the longest string of defeats (16 to Princeton) in current Ivy League rivalries.

Rutgers Nearly Made It. For 67 seconds on Saturday, the sweet taste of victory over Princeton was being savored by some 20,000 Rutgers partisans but the clock — and the Tigers — had just a bit too much left for them. Down by 21-14 late in the final period, it took Dick Colman's operatives just a minute and seven seconds to go 71 yards for a touchdown and a finger-tip two-point conversion.

The 22-21 final, bitterly disappointed to an opponent which had rallied superbly from an early 14-0 deficit, was a rugged test for the young Princetonians to pass successfully. It is a rare occasion when 11 players, only one of whom had started the Rutgers games a year ago, can blend together so well that they engineer a long scoring drive that brings victory just before the clock runs out.

Ivy League Forecast

Princeton over Columbia. After Rutgers, why not?

Surprises were numerous during the drawn-out but highly dramatic contest. The Tigers scored the first two times they got their hands on the ball, covering 69 yards in just five plays for a 7-0 lead and then rolling 62 more in eight to make it 14-0 with only 7:22 gone.

Tailback Bob Weber skirted left end for the first TD and fullback Ellis Moore barged through right guard for the second, Ted Garcia converting on each occasion. So well were they running, along with wingback Dave Miller, that quarter back Bob Schoene never once had to resort to a pass.

A pair of costly fumbles by Princeton helped get the visitors back in the ball game, although they earned everything they got after each opportunity presented itself. In the first quarter, Bruce Wayne fumbled a punt, Rutgers recovering on its 47 and going the distance in seven plays.

The score stood at 14-7 until sophomore Keith Mauney fumbled the second half kickoff. The Scarlet again pounced on the ball and erased the remaining 30 yards in just four plays.

The resulting 14-all deadlock then stayed on the board until the game began to draw to a close. Had it not been for the see-saw finish of the final three minutes, the score would have gone into the book as the first tie in the 58 games played since 1869.

Rutgers' drive for glory was preceded by the third field goal attempt by Garcia to hook off to the right, an unwelcome twist that Colman said was largely due to faulty snapping and placement of the ball just before he kicked it. The play began on the Rutgers two,

Game Was Not the First of the Last-Minute Dramas

Princeton's one point triumph over Rutgers, achieved Saturday with 57 seconds left on the clock, was worth a look into the record book to learn when the Tigers last gained victory with so little time left, and when they last defeated an opponent by a single point.

To dispose of the second question first, it was Princeton 7, Columbia 6, on October 5, 1963 at Baker Field. The Tigers had scored first, and then managed to stop a roll out by quarterback Archie Roberts short of the goal-line to block his attempt for a two-point conversion.

The shortest period of time left in a game which Princeton won in the final quarter was the 16 seconds that showed in the gathering dusk at the Yale Bowl on November 13, 1954. Royce Flippin, just recovered from a broken wrist, went off tackle fur his third TD of the day to make it 21-14, Princeton.

That, however, merely broke up a tie ball game. The shortest time left when Princeton came from behind was also against Columbia—here in Palmer Stadium on October 3, 1953. Fullback Homer Smith completed a 31-yard pass play from Flippin that turned a 19-13 deficit into a 20-19 triumph. There were 23 seconds left.

The '53 season was the year for last-minute decisions. Week before the squeaker over the Lions, quarterback Dick Emery hit wingback Earl Byrne on a 67-yard pass play that turned a potential 14-13 loss to Lafayette into a 20-14 triumph. That day, there was 2:40 left.

Later that fall, an Emery to Smith pass covered the last 54 yards of a mud-caked Cambridge field, coming with 2:44 to go as the only score of the game with Harvard. One week later, those who lived by the sword died by the sword, as Yale won its first game in six years from the Tigers. It was a 26-24 final, achieved with 24 seconds showing on the clock.

fourth and goal, and a number of grandstand quarterbacks were convinced the Tigers should have tried to go in for the TD from there.

Had Princeton failed, Rutgers would have been backed up on its one, with any kick going into the wind, and another shot at a TD might have followed. Colman merely commented that it was a difficult choice either way, and that had he gone for a touchdown and missed "the other half of the Stadium would have said I should have tried a field goal."

Getting the ball on its 20 after Garcia missed, Rutgers traveled 80 yards—the TD coming on a fine call by quarterback Pete Savino which sent the speedy Bryant Mitchell wide for a pitchout on a fourth-and-two situation for which Princeton had massed a tightly-knit eight-man line. With 2:04 left Mitchell was carried off the field in jubilation but when the game ended, an attempted 64-yard field goal by the Scarlet skidded to a stop on the Rutgers 14. The visitors' 21 points were more than they had produced against Princeton in a decade but all they brought were the first one-point defeat in the long rivalry.

It was Princeton's ability to move the ball that was the primary source of satisfaction in the post-game analysis. The rebuilt backfield toured the gridiron for 428 yards, a sizeable achievement against a Rutgers defense that generally gave a good account of itself.

Defense Adjusts. What made the picture bright for the Tigers' ground game was that the losers never could cope with it in full. When wingback Dave Miller ran a Scarlet sophomore end ragged with his reverses in the first period, the visitors overshifted their linebackers.

This made them vulnerable to excursions up the middle by fullbacks Ellis Moore and Don Hazen. In all, the tailbacks, Weber and Rich Bracken, plus Miller, who normally go wide, totalled 136 yards, while Moore and Hazen gained 162 between them—fine running balance.

It was Weber who stood out as the day's offensive star, even more than Mitchell with 162 yards and three TDs, because it was the Tiger tailback whose overall performance made victory possible. Statistically, he accounted for 52 yards running; 115 passing, completing 10 of 16 for 63%; scored once, passed for another and then came up with the fantastic end zone catch for the wholly-essential two-point conversion.

Bracken showed signs of lack of ability to practice his passing because of the fractured little finger which hampered his throwing for three weeks. He was one for four, and totalled only 29 yards during the afternoon. He and Weber will, however, give the Tigers a fine pair at tailback, with sophomore Scott MacBean, who threw the conversion pass to Weber, ready in the wings.

Injuries to three players during the game made them question marks for Columbia. Moore stretched an achilles tendon, hobbled off the field in the second quarter and came out after the first play of the second half. Sophomore end Tom Hutchinson limped off with a bad knee and defensive back Dick Sherlock could not finish after a sharp tackle in the extremely bruising game.

As always, the first contest uncovered much that the sophomores and a number of older players now holding starting assignments must learn. Poor timing cost a second period TD when Weber went into the end zone but lost the six points because of illegal procedure; a number of the running plays took too long to execute and the ball carriers were hit from behind before reaching the line. It was, however, an extremely successful opener against a rugged, well drilled foe which had the benefit of spring practice. "Even if we hadn't won," said backfield coach Jake McCandless, "we would have been satisfied with much of our overall performance."

SCHWARTZ KEEPS TITLE

In Springdale Golf. A hot putter helped Art Schwartz defend his club championship successfully Sunday when he defeated Moore Gates Jr. in a 36-hole match at Springdale, 3 and 4.

In the morning round, Schwartz sank a 25-foot downhill putt for a half on the 8th; putted in from just off the green, 16 feet away, for another half on the 9th; and then dropped a 60-footer on the ninth to erase Gates' 1 up lead and make the turn all even.

He birdied the 10th and 11th back to back, making a 20-footer on the tenth for his 4 and one from about eight feet out for the 3 on the 11th. That put him 2 up, a lead he maintained at the end of the morning round. The tidiest shot a 76, Gates a 79.

Schwartz moved out in the next nine holes, starting the final nine 3 up and winning on the 14th green. 5 and 4. One of the holes he won came his way when Gates put his club in the water on the ninth while playing out of the brook, calling the penalty against himself later "for soling his club in a hazard."

sloops, Jerry Lawson took five races out of five, finishing with a perfect score of 28.5 for the afternoon.

Reeder notched four firsts out of five, while Dexter Miller, who finished second with 17.9 points, nabbed the other. Ed Metcalf was third, just over a point behind with 36.7, and Tom Lawson, fourth at 39.7.

In fifth place was David Geddes, 27.3; followed by Walt Foster, 24.3; John Hopfield, 21.1; Pat Curtiss, 18.0; Joel Johnson, 11.6; Art Keiser 4.4; and Bill O'Donnell, who capsized in the first race.

Bill Rogers' 15.6 points placed him second behind Jerry Lawson in the sloop races. Tom Huntington was third with 14.9; George Cody, fourth; 9.4; and Bob Greiff, whose boat swamped in the first race, was fifth. Walt Gibson served as a one man race and protest committee.

Larry Raffaelli was at Babylon, N. Y. for the Atlantic Coast Penguin championship, and finished 22nd out of 35 boats.

HUN AT PERKIOMEN

After 13-7 Win Over PDS, Princeton Day School came to play. It wasn't until the gun sounded after 48 minutes of back and forth battle that Hun School could breath easily — and walk off its field with a 13-7 victory in Friday's opener between the two crosstown rivals.

Hun now turns to action in the Penn Jersey League. It won the league championship three years ago. For the past two, the one to wear the crown has been Perkiomen — the team Hun will meet Saturday in Pennsburg, Pa.

"Perkiomen has a good team. They don't have the quarterback they had last year," said Hun coach Hawley Waterman who scouted them Saturday "but they have a better running game.

"This is one we can win if we do right, but we'll have to improve a lot more." Waterman reported that Perkiomen had won its opener over the Pennsylvania School for the Deaf four touchdowns to one.

Mate, Short Excell. Before a sizeable but not overflowing crowd Friday, Hun overcame an early show of power by the Blue and White, that netted PDS its lone score and held on to win. Halfback Dick Mate and Chris Short were the big gainers for Hun which, as predicted, stayed on the ground. Short scored Hun's first TD in the second period off tackle from seven yards out to pull Hun to within one point, 7-6. The PAT attempt was blocked.

Then on the last play of the third quarter, Mate capped a 30-yard march when he swept left end for three yards. Short ran the PAT over.

"I think the game went pretty much the way we thought it might go," commented Waterman. "That we would wear them down in the second half. We had the bigger team and more players."

"We thought that both teams would be up. PDS did very well."

The PDS attack, which could be summed up in in four words — Bill Rigot, John Claghorn — drove deep into Hun territory after taking the opening kickoff but the home team stiffened and held. PDS then held Hun on downs and started once more from the Hun 25.

On third and eight, Rigot, back to pass, ran for a first down. A Rigot to Claghorn aerial carried to the seven. Claghorn moved it to the one-foot line and after three tries, Rigot plunged over for PDS' first varsity TD.

One Point The Hard Way. The Hilltopper's PAT was one of those I-saw-it-but-don't-believe-it plays. Claghorne, trapped trying to pass, retreated some 20 yards before finally arching a desperation blooper toward the end zone. Rick Ross, surrounded by three Hun defenders, snatched the ball after one of the three had tipped it.

Hun responded by driving 55 yards for its first score. Still, the first-half decision went to PDS which outgained Hun rushing, 113 to 100, and completed five of six passes for 44 yards. In the air Hun was one for one and 17 yards.

Deep in his own territory in the third period, Claghorn quick-kicked for PDS to the Hun 30. Hun took it in for the game-winning tally.

PDS, tiring but still game, tried to get it back, and gave Hun some anxious moments. Two big defensive plays, however, by Hun kept the visitors at bay. With 4:15 to go, linebacker Peter Maggio intercepted a Rigot pass.

The second came in the waning moments. After Claghorn had passed to Rigot for a first down on the 46, end Don Silver on broke through and tackled Rigot two plays later for a big loss.

SHORT SCORES HUN PAT: Halfback Mare Short sweeps to his right past the entire Princeton Day School team to score Hun's 13th point, after teammate Dick Mate had put Hun ahead of PDS, 12-7, on the last play of the third quarter. Hun held on to win, 13-7. (Staff Photo)

PDS FACES 2ND TEST

Travels to Chestnut Hill. The opposition will be just as tough, but if the weather is 15 to 20 degrees cooler this Friday afternoon than last, the Princeton Day School football team's chances of winning its first varsity game will improve. The contest is at Chestnut Hill beginning at 3:30.

A hot muggy afternoon and a bigger Hun squad in both size and number played an equal part in wearing down an outmanned PDS eleven last Friday, enabling Hun to score a 13-7 victory in the first meeting between the two schools.

who scouted Chestnut Hill on Saturday, reports that the team is not quite as big as Hun's but has plenty of speed and plays good aggressive football, both offensively and defensively. "We'll have our hands full," Barren commented.

Chestnut Hill has already played two games and has won both, walloping Bishop Shanahan 46-12 last Saturday, and outscoring Tainsli, 27-21, two weeks ago. In contrast to Hun, which stayed almost exclusively on the ground, Barren reports that Chestnut Hill passed about 50% of the time.

For half of Friday's contest, PDS battled Hun on even terms, and at the start looked as if it might pull an upset. The Blue and White scored first, passed for the p.a.t., and then blocked Hun's attempted conversion after its touchdown to take a 7-6 lead into the dressing room at halftime.

In the second half, however, Hun drove convincingly for its second tally and held PDS scoreless the rest of the way.

"We just ran out of gas," Barren said. "The heat wore our boys out, Hun was able to substitute for several of its players to give them a rest. That plus their size enabled them to move the ball against us."

Barren also reported that PDS was hurt by several broken plays, where players forgot their assignments or lined up wrong at the line of scrimmage. "But all in all," he said, "they made an outstanding effort and we have nothing to be ashamed about."

Standouts for PDS on offense were co-captain Bill Rigot at quarterback and John Clagborn at halfback Rigot scored the PDS touchdown and gained good yardage at times when he found his receivers covered.

The defense managed to contain Hun fairly well up the middle, but end sweeps were instrumental in its triumph. Barren noted that some changes will be made in the defensive line-up before Friday's game.

At the same time he cited the outstanding defensive play of center Frank Andrews and sophomore Lew Bowers. The latter made 13 tackles, while Andrews contributed 11 and played the whole 48 minutes.

PDS demonstrated in the first quarter against Hun that it can move the ball and defense well against a bigger team. When the weather cools down, it will have an easier time retaining its momentum for the other three periods.

BIG TEST SATURDAY

PHS at Perth Amboy. Following its 20-0 victory over Ewing Saturday, the Princeton High School football team has scored six touchdowns to none for the opposition in its first two starts.

The zero points alloted first to Hamilton and now Ewing attest to the solidness of the Little Tiger defense. It's been good, especially near the goal line where it counts. The offense, however, has looked good and bad, and although it has sputtered more than coach Dick Wood would like, it has gotten away with it because neither Hamilton nor Ewing put PHS to the test.

There should be no such margin Saturday afternoon at 2 when the Blue and White takes to the road for the first time against unbeaten Perth Amboy. The shore team easily disposed of Trenton in its opener and last week topped Sayreville, 25-13.

"It will be a key game, "said Wood. "I don't think we'll meet anyone harder this season. They're one of the better teams in Central Jersey." Wood added that Perth Amboy has a terrific quarterback, who rolls out a lot from the T to run or pass.

"They scouted us last week and today (Ewing) and they sure didn't see much" Wood continued. "I'm sure they feel we have a good defense and no offense." Wood added the team was working on a lot of new material which it didn't use against Ewing.

YODER TO WEBBER BROKEN UP: This pass in the end zone from Thom Yoder to Houston Webber (38) was broken up by Ewing in action in the second quarter. This was on of the few. Webber grabbed two touchdown passes during Saturday's contest and scored a third to account for all three PHS touchdowns in the Little Tigers' 20-0 victory. (George Manolakis Photo)

"I think we can do well. The defense is there but we need to do a lot of things offensively. There just aren't enough hours in the week."

PHS Scores Early. Against Ewing, PHS scored twice early in the game and then flounder-ed against an unsual Ewing defense the rest of the afternoon until the last play of the game. On the receiving end of Bill Walstad's pass on that final play was, fittingly, Houston Webber, who also scored the Little Tigers' first two TDs. It was quite a game for the 190-pound senior wingback.

PHS got on the scoreboard with 5:19 remaining in the first period when Webber, wide open up the middle, caught a strike from Thom Yoder and scampered in. The play covered 31 yards. Chris Gartner, who kleks in the soccer style made famous by the Gogolak brothers, converted. Gartner also resembles Charlie Gogolak in that he is a lightweight. The charts list him at 130.

On the return kickoff, a horde of PHS tacklers smothered the Blue Devil ball carrier on the two-yard stripe. Three plays netted nothing. Paul Pollastrelli's punt went vertical. As it hit the turf it bounced straight up and while both teams stood and watched, the alert Webber grabbed it and bolted for the end zone. It was a cheapie and it hurt Ewing.

"I think Ewing fell asleep on that play," observed Wood. "No one played it and it took the right bounce for Webber."

Tempo Slows. Just when it appeared that PHS was going to turn things into a rout, the tempo of the contest developed into a prodding, dull affair for two reasons.

Ewing for its part couldn't move at all on the ground, and its air game was equally ineffective. When quarterback Paul Martz wasn't being rushed by the PHS line, he wasn't hitting his receivers. The eleven on defense who made it a long afternoon for the visitors were Harry Rosso, Nick Ryan, John Panzer, Guy Diviaio, Fred Fox, John Madden, Webber, Nick Arcaro, Matt Alexander, Tom Taylor and Ron McEwen.

Used to a six man line, PHS was stymied by the defense devised by Ewing coach Steve Meunch. It consisted of five men up front with two line backers outside, up tight, two more defenders wider yet, and still two more split wider. The linemen instead of getting into the play simply submarined.

"We were symied up the middle and stymied on the outside," said Wood. "We couldn't adjust to it. The backfield looked like a big V—that was the open spot. We tried to make some changes in our blocking but it didn't work out the way we thought it would."

Ewing had two scoring opportunities. In the third the visitors recovered a fumble by fullback Charles Madden on the PHS 15-yard marker. On a fourth and two Ewing tried a pitch-out but the runner was thrown for a loss by McEwen.

Fumble Hurts Ewing.

Moving up from his safety position.

Ewing's deepest penetration—to the PHS five—was short lived. With seconds to go in the third quarter, Martz bit half back Chuck Williams who appeared to bobble the ball. The referee called it a good catch, however, and PHS regained possession when Williams let the ball drop loose on a tackle by Princeton's co-captain Tom Taylor. Webber recovered.

Again early in the final stanza, Ewing, showing signs of life, reached the PHS 18, first and 10. Co-captain Tom Butterfoss stopped the runner with no gain on first down. Defensive end Nick Ryan smothered an attempted rollout. On third down, the entire front line choked off a thrust up the middle. Then Matt Alexander batted down Martz's fourth down pass near the goal line. And so it went for the Blue Devils.

Alexander a few plays later extricated his teammates from possible trouble by booming a punt that may have set some sort of record for distance. Standing on about his own ten, Matt got off a long, high kick that took a Princeton bounce. The return of some 10 yards was to the Ewing 30.

With 5:28 to go McEwen intercepted a Ewing pass that was nowhere near any Blue Devil receiver and returned it to the Ewing 36. With 10 seconds to go, Walntad passed to Webber to the seven. After the play no seconds showed on the scoreboard clock.

Not so, said the timekeeper.

One second remained. That was all Walntad needed to complete another payoff pass to Webber who ran a fine pattern. It was a well-executed play the kind PHS is going to have to produce with greater frequency against Perth Amboy.

BOWLING NOTES

Tantum Bowler of Week

Stan Tantum's 238 first game in a 562 series earned him the TOWN TOPICS Bowler of the Week award for the high single game. Vicki DeCicco with a 191 won the TOWN TOPICS award for the high single game rolled by a woman.

Actually, both were topped by former winners of the award this year, but former winners are ineligible for a second award. Joe Baldino had the high single game last week at the Princeton Lanes, a 286, while Julia Ball, tops last week with a 210, was high again this week with a 212.

In the A League, Nassau Delicatessen to its one point margin. It now leads runner-ups Ivy Inn, Nini and Antler's, 17 points to 16. The latter three are all even.

Baldino added a 164-200 to his 286 for a 630 series. Bob Cifelli had 225-210-191—626 and Mike Penelli, 220-196-196—612. Jack Petrone rolled 233-265.

High single games were Art Pellicheri's 232; Jake Bortolino's 226; Ken Wible's 225; Larry Golden's 225, and Tony Tamasi's 221. Eight others were above the 200 level.

Five teams are bunched in second place in the Nassau League with 14 points. They are Snedeker, Flint Aid, Grover, P&S Local 300, and Tiger Garage. R&D Atlantic leads it with 16.

Most consistent bowler was Bob Cifelli with 215-212-188 for 615. Joe Pfister had 207-201. George Pierre claimed the high single game—221. Others, Fred Aeschbacher, 219, and Jim Sealy, Claude Pinelli and Dick Traegler, 213 212-211 respectively.

High among the firemen in the Tri-County league was George Pierre with 206-210-186—596. Tantum dropped off from his opening 238 to 173-181—592. Frank Muddoken had a fine 235 game. Additional high single games were a 229 by Bucky Cupples, Bill Wesp's 226 and Bill Toole's 224.

Nini Plymouth gained in the Women's Business League where it tied former leader Princeton Taxi for first place. Both have 18 points. Two points back is Rocky Hill Inn, while University Cleaners and Claridge Liquor are knotted at 14 each. Jefferson Plumbing has 12.

Dinne Fowler was almost 50 pins higher than anyone else, rolling a steady 192-190-182—564. Helen Tamasi had 182-181—515, and Julia Ball 212-179—508. Mells Cruser rolled a pair of fine games, 184-181, to reach 502.

High singles, Vicky DeCicco, 191, Maggie Schmidt, 180; Carol Lisi, 179; Charlotte Rossi, 178; Sis Snyder, 177; Dot Wheeler, 173; and Dail Forsyth and Betty Kleiber, both 170.

Lillian Burrough converted the 5-8-10 split. Sue McManimon mastered the 3-10 and Eleanor Mansue the 5-7.

In the just-formed Mixed League, King Pins, Hi Lo's and Operators share the lead with 4 points. Missiles, Taps and Misers all have two.

High scorers were Julia Ball, 200; Ken Wible, 188; and Ray Slovinsky and Bill Maltzke, both 181. Lynn Carter rolled 180.

LADIES INVITED

SYLVESTRE APPOINTED

As Administrative Assistant. Robert E. Sylvestre has been named as an administrative assistant in Princeton University's Department of Athletics and Physical Education, R. Kenneth Fairman, director of athletics, has announced.

A 20 year veteran with the U.S. Air Force, Mr. Sylvestre specialized in personnel work. Upon discharge from active service with the rank of master sergeant at McGuire Air Force Base last week, he received the Air Force Commendation Medal for superior performance of duty.

For the past five years, he has been affiliated with the Air Force ROTC unit at the University.

Players, regardless of ability, should come to the courts Mondays from 9 to 11:30, Wednesdays from 1 to 3, and Fridays from 9 to 11:30. As players arrive, informal games will be arranged.

The "ladies days" have been established to insure interested tennis buffs a chance to play without having to spend hours on the phone trying to set up a foursome. For further information call Julie White at 921-8047 or Arnie Sittig, 921-9323.

The GREATEST . . . BEST . . . FASTEST . . . How many times have you seen and heard these words in ads selling service . . . we admit, we've used them ourselves. But we have found that you can't sell a service with superlatives! We simply say that we think our TV Repair Service is merely better than adequate . . . it's only GOOD.

We have trained, competent technicians with years of experience in their profession to back that statement.

And most of all, we have many satisfied customers . . . which is, after all, our ultimate goal!

Do us a service . . . call 921-8500 today so that we may serve you!
